AUGUSTA NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, AUGUSTA, Ga., March 24.
Bobby Jones was marching toward a glorious Appomattox as the gloom of a cold, March day fell on the second round of his return to competitive golf.

He fired all his guns today in one desperate effort to find the old touch and wipe out the burden imposed by his 70 of Thursday. But try as he would the old magic would not come and he came home with a 74 to finish in a tie for twenty-eighth position.

Leading the field was Horton Smith, the lanky Oklahoma professional, who combined artistry with erratic play to score a 72, even par, and head the list with a 142.

Up and Down.
The arch-rival of Bobby Jones in 1930 and the last to score a victory over the Atlanta barrier, was over par on three holes in the first nine but he had an eagle three on the second hole and a birdie eight to finish with par. Coming home he was twice over and twice under par to get his perfect figure.

In second place were Ed Dudley, the Augusta national golf professional, and Billie Burke, the cigar-smoking player.

They each had a 143.
Ed Dudley got there with a par-breaking 69.

While the course continued to baffle his more anxious followers, Charley Yates, crack young Atlanta amateur, caught up with old man par by shooting a neat 72. This added to his 70 of yesterday for a 36-hole total of 148, three better than his nearest amateur rival and within striking distance of the professional leaders.

There were some low scores in the practice rounds but in two rounds of competitive play Ed Dudley is the only one to crack 70. His card, with par follows.

Par out . . . 443 545 344-36
Par in . . . 454 343 454-36-72
Dudley out . . . 443 443-36-72
Dudley in . . . 443 353 454-35-69

This added to his 74 of Thursday and really he should have seen the black-faced eagles. They were all smiles. "Yes, sub, Mistah Dudley done showed the boys how."

Billie Burke came home with 71 to add to his 72 of Thursday. He got 3 birdies on the first 9 and with a little more luck would have had 4.

City To Complete 3 Sewers With $50,000 CWA Aid
Mayor Key Approves Resolution Guaranteeing Consummation of Jobs—1,200 Employees
To Stay on Work, It Is Estimated.

Completion of three of the five major sewer projects contemplated from CWA cooperation with local governments was assured Friday afternoon, council moved unanimously in accord with proposals of Miss Gay
B. Shepperson, CWA and federal relief administrator of Georgia, to consume the program already begun.

Mayor James L. Key immediately approved the resolution guaranteeing completion of the three jobs, and the CWA will purchase $50,000 worth of materials at once.

At the same time, council took action looking toward start of another important stretch of the metropolitan sewer program, but one which is not connected with the present CWA jobs.

Alderman Frank J. Reynolds, chairman of the sewer committee, told council that if the city would provide $25,000 for cement costs, Fulton county would furnish all other materials and the labor for a portion of the large Peachtree creek development.

The proposal was sent to the finance committee for consideration, and probably will face the next meeting of council.

No Funds Provided
In guaranteeing completion of the three projects, council did not provide any additional funds, but merely gave its promise to continue engineering supervision of CWA workers, who will be kept on the job. Miss Shep-erson estimates that at least 1,200 workers will be retained ever after CWA as such is suspended on April 1.

Text of the resolution guaranteeing completion of the three projects and which thus paved the way for the purchase of $50,000 worth of additional material for the projects follows:

"Whereas, the Georgia Civil Works administration has funds available which may be spent for the purchase of additional material to be used in the construction of project 60-554, McDaniel-South, project 60-555,
Sugar creek, and project 60-553, eastern section of Peachtree creek, and

"Whereas, the CWA is willing to make such purchase and to furnish all the labor on these jobs provided the city will agree to complete these three projects, work on which is now in progress,

"Therefore, be it resolved by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta that the city will furnish all equipment and material needed between the city and the CWA.

Following the recent appearance of the White House, a candidate for the

CURRY MOVES TO OUST
CHIEFTAIN OF TAMMANY
NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—A movement to declare the post of Tammany chief vacant and to select a new one today by forces seeking to oust John F. Curry from the leadership of the powerful democratic organization.

The action was considered by district leaders opposed to the Curry regime as the White House issued a statement saying President Roosevelt would take no part in the contest.

The statement denied that Postmaster-General James A. Farley would outline the situation to the president.

Under the proposed plan, William P. Kennedy, chairman of the Tammany executive committee, would be asked to call a meeting of that group and announce that the vacancy existed. Then the district leaders would ballot for a new chieftain.

he did not intend to retire.

U. S. Banks Forbidden
To Aid in French Loan
WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—
The treasury ruled today that American banks could not participate in a Dutch syndicate loan to the French government because of imminent passage of the Johnson bill prohibiting loans to foreign governments in default on war debts.

The treasury had been asked by New York banks to rule on an invitation received from Amsterdam to participate in 100,000,000 guilders of 30-day French treasury bills.

Morgenstern explained the bill by Senator Johnson, republican, California, already has passed the senate, and administration support and is expected to become law.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—
The White House said today President Roosevelt was keeping hands off party contests in local political campaigns.

It issued a memorandum denying reports that the president had any intention of entering with Postmaster-General Farley into a fight to oust
John F. Curry from Tammany Hall, in New York.

The memorandum further stated:
"The president will strictly adhere to his hands-off policy when and whenever attempts are made to involve him in local political party contests."

Incidentally, it was made known the president was taking no part in state political contests.

U. S. Launches Drive

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(UP)—

serted violations of the petroleum code was launched tonight by a federal grand jury with the indictment of two major oil companies, three so-called independent firms and 41 individuals prominent in Pacific coast financial circles.

The Standard Oil Company of Cal-violations of the code and 11 of its officers, including its president, K. R.

Kingsbury, who is on the code authority for the petroleum industry, were named in the indictment.

$35,000 Torture Verdict
Mem Against Deputies
MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 23.—(AP)—
A federal court jury here today returned a judgment for $25,000 punitive damages and $10,000 actual damages in favor of W. D. Smith, of Burdette, Ark., who was charged in the lawsuit that he had been tortured by deputies working under Sheriff Samuel T. Hunter, of Haywood county, Tenn.

Smith charged in his suit that the defendants were all deputized by Sheriff Hunter following the slaying of another in Haywood county nearly two years ago. Ernest Shaw, former Haywood county landowner, was charged with the slaying and the shooting.

Smith testified that the deputies tortured him in an effort to make him reveal information concerning alleged stills or liquor on Shaw's place.

Stock Measure With 'Teeth' Is Demanded by Roosevelt
Prospects for Regulatory Action This Session Rise Sharply; Reserve System Indorses Fletcher-Rayburn Proposal.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—
The prospects for regular dry measure this session that will put the stock exchanges under strict federal supervision rose sharply today with word from the White House that President Roosevelt desired a measure with "teeth" in it.

The chief executive, however, said he had not read the latest draft of the stock bill—the Fletcher-Rayburn measure—although the treasury and federal reserve system indicated today it was satisfactory to them.

Some observers saw in the benediction given by Governor Eugene Black of the federal reserve system and the testimony of Tom R. Smith, assistant to Secretary Morgenthau, as assurance that the revised measure would keep its essential features unless Mr. Roosevelt wanted drastic modification.

Opposition to the bill, however, was expressed today at sessions of the senate banking and house commerce committees. A charge that "brain trusters" who aided in writing the measure were bent on leading the nation into communism was made before the latter group.

This assertion was made by James H. Rand, chairman of the committee for the nation. After a heated cross-examination, in which Rand declined to give hints, he was finally removed from the witness stand by Chairman Rayburn.

Committee's Ire Aroused.
The committee's ire was especially aroused by a letter from Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educator, which Rand read. It quoted unnamed "brain trusters" as saying they were deliberately trying to impede recovery to convince the country that the government should take full charge of commerce and industry.

The federal reserve board's views on the revised stock exchange bill were given to the senate banking committee by Thomas H. Black, the board's feeling of the board was, he said, that the bill was "workable, right in principle, and will accomplish the purposes of the department without speculation and eliminating undesirable practices."

The treasury's indorsement, presented by Thomas H. Black, assistant Secretary Morgenthau, was confined to the objectives and purposes of the measure, with the added statement that the department had not considered the strictly technical aspects of the measure. Failure to comment upon them, said Smith, did not mean the treasury opposed them.

CIT FOR TEACHERS SCORED BY MAYOR
Budget But Raps Board; Harrelson Hits Mayor.

Mayor James L. Key Friday scored heavy cuts for school teachers, "whims of the school department" and "petty despotism" in approving the 1934 school budget, and J. Ira Harrelson, president of the Atlanta board of education, leveled a scathing fire at the mayor as major developments in the school finance row which has shaken the municipal government for the past several weeks.

The budget, which Key approved in a "restrained fashion" because he had no "legal right to disapprove it," proposed a wage cut of 4 per cent to 30 per cent.

Friday night Harrelson attacked
Key in a satirical letter to the mayor.
He said the school teachers were being asked to make a sacrifice for the city when it was presented to them by school administration officials and the board president during the morning.

He laid the blame for a marked reduction in the salaries of school teachers at Key's door, while Key complained that the school teachers were in the hands of the school department and that their protests were smothered by "petty despotism."

His failure to criticize the budget was a statement concerning the schools, you had the press in your office when I was here this morning and you knew what I was saying. Harrelson said in his letter to Key, which he released for publication, "If you are so fearless, why did you not then announce your decision to the public? I could have replied face to face."

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—
A prediction that an agreement would be reached tomorrow that would settle the threatened strike in the automobile industry was made tonight by Hugh S. Johnson after President Roosevelt had talked over the matter with manufacturers and labor representatives.

The president spent almost two hours in separate conference with the two groups.

Johnson, asked if there would be an agreement tomorrow, said as he left the final meeting:
"Yes, I think so."

He was smiling and, holding his finger, separated only slightly, remarked:
"We are only that far apart."

Tension Relaxed.
The tension on all sides seemed obviously relaxed after the White House sessions. The president talked for an hour and ten minutes with the auto executives and for less than 20 minutes with the labor group.

Both the executives and the labor representatives said they would remain over tonight to await a call tomorrow from the president.

Labor officials said they would telegraph the workers to hold off the strike another day.

The automobile manufacturers were cheerful but uncommunicative as they left to give way for labor representatives who had waited in the adjoining cabinet room.

Motor Men Silent.
As the motor men plowed through the group of waiting newspaper reporters in the outer lobby, they declined to say whether an agreement had been reached.

"I can't say a thing," said C. W.
Nash, one of the three members of the manufacturers' delegation.
"I am just a chore boy. I am just doing what I am ordered to do."

While the labor delegation, consisting of William Collins, Joseph Bail-and Richard L. Bird, conferred with the president, the manufacturers joined their colleagues at dinner to discuss the results of the talks.

Collins said as he left:
"Substantial progress has been made. That is all I can tell you."
"It looks good," said Johnson as the two groups parted.

Dillinger Aid Links
'Politics' With Escape

LIMA, Ohio, March 24 (Saturday)
(AP)—Attorney-General Philip Lutz Jr., of Indiana, announced early today that Harry Pierpont, Dillinger's partner in the escape, was awaiting a death sentence here, told him John Dillinger's escape from the Crown Point (Ind.) jail had been arranged to protect political reputations of high Indiana officials.

Lutz came here to attend the trial of Russell Clark, another Dillinger gangster charged with the murder of Sheriff Jess Barker and to question Pierpont and Charles Mackley about the Crown Point escape.

He asserted that Pierpont told him that the escape had been planned to prevent Dillinger from revealing certain facts concerning the Indiana state prison break of last September 26, in which ten convicts escaped.

ENTENTE CORDIALE MAY BE RESTORED

France Urges British Cooperation in Revival of Old Alliance.

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—Revival of the old entente cordiale which brought Great Britain into the World War is sought by France in a secret communication to London elaborating on an arms note.

The latter document, made public tonight, itself referred guardedly to this French desire in discussing the necessity of safeguarding against violations of any arms convention.

"If established violations endanger the security of a state, common action by the powers should be used for the benefit of the threatened nation," the note said.

This common action should come into play particularly if the violation degenerated into aggression.

If British guarantees of aid against an aggressor are not forthcoming, the note makes it plain that the Geneva disarmament conference is at an end.

It leaves the door open, however, for a new conference which would recognize and limit German rearmament, limit the arms of other countries and settle the security question.

European Conference.

Such a conference was interpreted as essentially European and political in nature and one in which the United States and Russia probably would not be asked to participate.

The signing of an arms convention, the note added, permitting Germany to rearm would be a blow to the League of Nations, to which, it asserted, "France remains faithful."

"Whatever may have been said or attempted against the League, it remains the only organization capable of furnishing a collective guarantee of peace," the message maintained.

The flat assertion that Germany is violating the post-war Versailles treaty by rearming was made in the note, which said also that France refuses to sanction this rearmament and at the same time join other powers in disarmament moves.

"Germany is bringing up her armaments to a much higher level than that authorized by the treaty," the communication affirmed.

Referring to the covenant on disarmament, the note said the armament commission "is entitled to say in conjunction with all other interests at stake whether these principles be departed from."

Five problems were listed as demanding settlement:

The status of semi-military organizations—such as the Nazi storm troops in Germany, which the reich says

Friends Battle Crowds At Tashman Funeral

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—

Intimate friends of Lillian Tashman had to fight their way through the crowd which gathered today about the tiny white chapel where funeral services for the film actress were held.

Thirty policemen were called to keep order. As they began opening a lane to the chapel door, three women fainted. Two ambulances were summoned.

Inside the chapel, which seated 100 people, Eddie Cantor, in a eulogy, said:

"Fame and fortune did not change our Lillian. She was one of the few in our profession who kept her sense of proportion."

are not soldiers, but which France wants counted as effective.

The methods of disarmament supervision.

Temporary and eventually permanent limitation on arms budgets.

The control of the manufacture of arms.

Guarantees of the observance of any pact.

"France can neither understand nor admit that exaggerated pretensions to rearmament formulated on one side should constitute an argument for asking of other powers the reductions of armaments," it was pointed out in the note.

Regarding a British plan which would "associate an immediate reduction in armaments imposed upon certain powers with an immediate increase in armaments granted other powers," the communication said:

"The very conception of such a plan of disarmament calls forth the most serious objections."

Regular Army Demands.

France refused, further, "the immediate claim by Germany for a regular army of 300,000 men with corresponding equipment without a previous examination of the present state of disarmament," and insisted on the observance of the League of Nations covenant clause on disarmament provisions.

"If nations are liberated from the juridical obligations to which they subscribe," it was explained, "the powers would take into consideration only their direct interests."

"Governments made wise by the lessons of the past would prefer before binding themselves to a certain that a new convention will not meet with the fate of military clauses and treaties of peace."

"Put more briefly, they would consent to be the victims of their own good faith."

"Every new concession leads to new demands or a new violation of the treaty."

As evidence of the French desire for an agreement, even at a sacrifice, if security is provided, the note pointed out that France between 1920 and 1932 "reduced the term of military service 66 per cent, the number of divisions 50 per cent and effectives 25 per cent, and between June, 1932, and June, 1933, reduced the national budget 2,500,000,000 francs."

Newspaper Code Authority Group Named At Meeting of Georgia Press Association

Principal speakers at the luncheon of the Georgia Press Association Friday at the Piedmont hotel. Seated, left to right, are Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution; Governor Eugene Talmadge, and Milton Fleetwood, of Cartersville, president of the press association. Standing, left to right, are Hampton Maxey, secretary of the Tennessee Press Association; Major John S. Cohen, editor of The Journal, and James Kempington, editor of the Fulton County Daily Report. Georgia editors met to discuss the newspaper code. Staff photo by George Cornett.

O. W. Passavant, editor of the New York Herald, was named chairman and five other widely-known Georgians were elected members of the newspaper code authority Friday at an all-day session of the Georgia Press Association at the Piedmont hotel.

Hampton Maxey, code authority of the NEA for the southeast and secretary of the Tennessee Press Association, was the principal speaker at the morning and afternoon meetings, explaining the various ramifications of the newspaper code, which is to go into effect as soon as details can be worked out. Milton L. Fleetwood, of Cartersville, president of the Georgia Press Association, presided.

Serving with Mr. Passavant on the Georgia code authority are Albert Hardy Sr., of Gainesville; John Green Herring, of Tifton; Walter Hargrave, of Thomasville; Jere Moore, of Milledgeville; Roy McGinnis, of Calhoun, and President Fleetwood.

Mr. Herring and Mr. Hargrave were also elected chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the group of daily newspapers in the state. The association will meet in Atlanta next Saturday to name an administrator for Georgia.

Governor Eugene Talmadge, Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution; Major John S. Cohen, editor of the Journal; James Kempington, publisher of the Fulton County Daily Report;

Mr. Maxey and Mr. Fleetwood were honor guests at the luncheon at the hotel.

Mr. Howell, in a short address, said the community which did not support its local newspaper was a dead community. He said, "The community newspaper is a necessary supplement to the metropolitan paper and carries news in detail about local conditions which can not be gathered by the metropolitan journal. Therefore, it is of prime importance to its community."

The press association adopted a resolution to work out its own price list for job printers, and not to adopt the so-called patented price list, which is higher.

Review by certiorari of the case of the Fidelity and Deposit Company, of Maryland, against John C. Lewis, receiver of the Hancock National bank of Sparta, has been granted by the United States supreme court and arguments have been set for April 30, it was said Friday by Max F. Goldstein, of Little, Powell, Reid & Goldstein, on his return from Washington.

The case is said to be of wide importance, although involving only $6,000 of state funds in the bank which closed in 1931, inasmuch as the point to be determined is whether the Georgia law providing for prior liens on property of banks in which the state has made deposits is applicable to national banks.

The review by certiorari was asked by J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, after the decision of the

ROBINSON TO PASS ON WORLD COURT

Decision on Congressional Action on Old Issue To Be Made Known Soon.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, late today promised a statement in the next few days giving his position on whether the long-dormant World Court issue should be taken up at this session for settlement or postponed until the next congress.

The majority chief made this announcement to newspapermen after a long line of witnesses had appeared before the senate foreign relations committee to urge favorable committee action and ratification by the senate at this session.

In a little more than two hours, 30 representatives of national and state organizations put arguments for American adherence before the senate foreign relations committee.

At the conclusion, Chairman Pittman, democrat, Nevada, said the committee would decide at its regular meeting next Wednesday when the opposition would be heard.

Indications were a majority of the committee, while in favor of the treaties, probably would not urge approval at this session if it would interfere with the Roosevelt program.

Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg, W. Va., former president of the American Bar Association, acted as chairman of the groups favoring ratification in the absence of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, who was unable to attend.

A letter to Baker from Alfred E. Smith was read, asserting:

"In these disturbed and threatening times, we should certainly do our part toward persuading all civilized nations to compose their differences by reason and law instead of by force."

The former democratic presidential candidate pointed out both parties had long advocated American entry into the court and the senate as far back in 1926 voted overwhelmingly to join the tribunal with reservations.

"The proposal made back in 1926 should now be adopted without further delay," he said, "so that the United States may take its proper part and lend its full support to the establishment of the rule by reason and neighborliness in international affairs."

Manley O. Hudson, member of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague and professor of international law at Harvard, argued, as did several others, that the last Root protocol gave "complete protection to the United States."

Others who urged court adherence were Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, former president of the Federal Council of Churches; Governor Green, of Rhode Island; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Henry I. Hargman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Fred Breckman, of the National Grange, and Curtis Bok, Philadelphia peace advocate.

fifth federal circuit court of appeals reversed Judge Bascom Deaver, of Macon, who had held with the receiver of the bank that the state did not have a prior lien. Mr. Goldstein is acting for the surety company, which had paid the state.

PEACHTREE CHRISTIAN PLANS NEW ADVENTURE

Special services at the Peachtree Christian church at 8 o'clock Monday through Thursday nights, described by Dr. Robert Burns, minister, as a "new adventure in discovering the greater riches of worship together," will be climaxed on Thursday night with observance of the anniversary of the first Lord's Supper. Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, and Dr. Wilburn Smith, pastor of the Jackson Hills Baptist church, will minister at the altar Thursday night.

Observance of the "Hours Upon the Cross" has been scheduled for 1 to 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, with a number of Atlanta ministers participating.

Georgia Fields And Streams

By H. A. Carter.

Reports of the occurrences of animals in various parts of Georgia always interest me, but a report from Rockdale county of an otter amusing himself within sight of the road gives me more than ordinary satisfaction. I have never seen enough of otters, anyway. If they are close enough to civilization to run out of an afternoon and look them over, I may see enough of them to approach satisfaction.

There is a beauty in their movements, for example, that approaches the grace and perfection of the sea lions. Their bodies are not perfectly streamlined according to the laws of mathematics, I suppose, but their movements are a symphony in vibrant black. Their glistening bodies turn and twist in movements that can hardly be associated with anything as rigid as a vertebral column. Their thick tails taper to a blunted point, giving the appearance of a mobile torpedo.

One amusing habit of the otter has been described by many writers, but I have never come on the scene in time to witness it. It is the habit of sliding. These carnivores will build slides on the muddy banks of streams, down which they rush head first, and splash into the water with all due grace. I have seen wet slides, bearing the marks of bodies now far downstream, but have never been able to find the spots in progress.

An example of the swiftness of the otter in the water and the perfect adaptation to its element lies in the fact that it can swim well enough to catch and eat trout. Fish forms the major part of otter diet in some sections, but for the region of this report, I imagine that this diet must be supplemented with something else.

The fur of otter is one of the most valuable of North American animals. For this reason they should be accorded more protection under law than they are given at present. I believe I mentioned this a few days back along with a discussion of the beaver and bear and their status in Georgia. I shall repeat it whenever it is appropriate, for it is a subject that should be given a great deal of attention. Attention should be lavished upon it, in fact, until the laws of Georgia give them a chance to reach their former full measure of abundance.

SHOLTZ MAY CAMPAIGN IN FLORIDA ELECTIONS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 23.

Gov. Dave Sholtz is not going to take any active part in the election of the 1935 legislature unless he learns of "subtle, vicious propaganda by special interests," being injected into the campaign.

The governor candidly declared today that he referred to bond interests when he said "subtle, vicious propaganda by special interests."

In case he learns of such propaganda, he said, he is going to "speak openly in the interest of the people."

Athlete To Speak

C. C. Mason Jr., president of the Oglethorpe Alumni Association, urges all Oglethorpe alumni to attend the weekly meeting of the association at the Hotel Grady hotel at 12:30 p. m. today. The feature speaker for this week's meeting is Dr. L. N. "Chief" Turk, famous athlete from Oglethorpe. At these weekly luncheons, various members give short talks on the kind of business they are now following.

DR. BRICKER COMES FOR SUNDAY SERMON

Dr. L. O. Bricker, who has long been identified with the Peachtree Christian church, has returned to Atlanta to occupy his pulpit for the special pre-Easter services commencing Sunday morning, it was announced by the Rev. Robert W. Burns.

Dr. Bricker, who has been at Miami Beach almost continually for the last year or two, will be welcomed by many Atlanta friends at the special services that will be held at the Peachtree Christian church during the week. He will preach Sunday morning on the subject "In the House of God." Prior to the morning worship service he will be the speaker at the Adult Bible class of the church.

G. O. P. SOLONS HIT DEMOCRATIC PLAN

Chieftains Accuse Administration of Failure to Carry Out Pledges.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—In an outburst of oratory that projected air mail and tariff sharply to the fore as campaign issues, republican chieftains charged today that the democrats had failed to carry out a dozen platform promises and had brought about a situation where capital and labor were at each other's throats.

Senators Hastings, of Delaware, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, and C. E. Hughes, of Ohio, former chairman of the republican national committee, carried the burden of debate.

Hastings assailed cancellation of air mail contracts, NRA policies and Rooseveltian advisors. Senator Metcalf, republican, Rhode Island, joined in the attack to call the tariff bill now before the house a "drastic abdication of the power of congress."

"No country could be in a more dangerous condition," Hastings said, "than to have the brain trust urging new experiments on one side and politicians playing politics on the other, the two combining in an attempt to get a hold on the country which will take years to be shaken off."

He said the NRA policies had placed the nation in a "straight-jacket" and the mail contracts were cancelled without the operators being given a hearing, just to "add to the prestige of the deal."

Among the 12 "promises" Hastings said the democrats had ignored were a 25 per cent cut in government expenditures, a sound currency, a competitive tariff for revenue, extension of "credit" to states for unemployment relief, and the spreading of employment by reduced hours.

While the administration was urging private industry to raise wages and shorten hours, he said, government employees were working longer hours with reduced pay and postal employees were taking compulsory furloughs in addition to pay cuts.

Asserting the government had destroyed cotton and hogs "while many are in need of food and clothing," he said the "last and most outrageous of all is to be a processing tax on the milk that feeds the children and undernourished of the land."

As the 22 hours of booming debate got under way, indications were the issue would be decided largely along party lines, with some defections in the democratic forces. A vote is not expected by leaders until late next week.

President Roosevelt requested the legislation, which would empower him to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements and raise or lower import duties 50 per cent without consent of congress.

At the federal bank's suggestion, the New York bank, which has for years handled financial business for the Russian government in America, will head a committee representing banking groups throughout the country which will meet next week with trade experts to discuss a Russian-Russian chamber of commerce.

They will prepare a report to be given to Charles E. Stuart, executive vice president of the export-import bank, mapping out the way in which commercial banks of the country can share in the money lending of the export-import bank.

U. S. May Investigate 'Peonage' in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 23.—(AP)—Legally impotent to press charges against persons alleged to have practiced peonage upon paroled convicts, the state penal board today was advised to submit its evidence to federal authorities for prosecution.

Superintendent A. G. Stedman of the penal system was told by Assistant Attorney-General John H. Caldwell that Arkansas has no law against involuntary servitude, although the constitution has forbidden it since the Civil War.

Chairman Walter Helms of the penal board said the board in an investigation started two weeks ago had uncovered a number of cases where paroled convicts had been kept on plantations under conditions amounting to peonage.

Spencer Tracy Guarded After Kidnap Threats

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(AP)—Spencer Tracy, film star, has been under police guard for a month as a result of a kidnap-extortion plot, detectives disclosed tonight.

The detectives said Tracy received on February 23 a letter demanding $8,000 under threats of kidnaping him, his two children, or a young actress with whom he has been seen since his separation from his wife last summer.

Police would not disclose the identity of the young actress and Tracy would not comment. Columnists have commented frequently of late on the actor's attentions to Loretta Young.

MISS LUCY OWENS TO MARRY SCION OF GOTHAM FAMILY

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Owens, of Atlanta, announced tonight the engagement of their daughter, Miss Henrietta Lucy Owens, to James Gamble Rogers Jr.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Owens is descended on her maternal side from Rufus King, signer of the constitution and minister to England under George Washington, and from William Patterson, another signer of the constitution.

She is a graduate of Connecticut College at New London, Conn., and has lived here for several years.

Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gamble Rogers, is a descendant of William Pynchon, founder of Springfield, Mass. He is also a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Day, of Lake Forest, Ill., and is descended from the Rogers family of Culpeper county, Virginia.

He is a graduate of St. Paul's school and Yale University and is at present associated with the advertising firm of Benton & Bowles, Inc.

BAPTIST WOMEN NAME OFFICERS IN TENNESSEE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 23.—(AP)—Mrs. R. L. Harris, of Knoxville, has been elected president of the Tennessee Baptist Women's Missionary Union.

Other officers chosen by the W. M. U. in final sessions of its convention here yesterday were:

Vice president at large, Mrs. Hight C. Moore, of Nashville.

Vice president west Tennessee, Mrs. R. C. Dickinson, of Memphis.

Vice president middle Tennessee, Mrs. E. L. Atwood, of Murfreesboro.

Vice president east Tennessee, Mrs. J. Frank Seiler, of Elizabethton.

Recording secretary, Mrs. Douglas J. Ginn, of Nashville.

Corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Mary Northington, of Nashville.

Death of Wife Brings Liberty for Father of 5

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—Oliver Snell had freedom from state prison today to temper his bereavement as his wife was buried in Vero Beach.

Mrs. Snell died yesterday, leaving five children.

As funeral services were held for her today, the state prison pardon board granted a parole to her husband, sentenced June 22, 1926, to life imprisonment for the murder of G. McKinley in Marion county.

Snell was paroled to the Rev. T. O. Baldwin, of Vero Beach. Pardon board members said they voted for his release so he could assume care of his children.

FOES OF TARIFF BILL CRY 'DICTATORSHIP'

Champions of Administration Measure Defend It as U. S. Need.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The opposition threw charges of "dictatorship" against the administration's reciprocal tariff bill today in the house but proponents held it up as the only device by which America may expand its foreign markets.

Characterized by Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the ways and means committee, as "one of the most important phases of the president's recovery program," it was branded by Representative Treadway, of Massachusetts, ranking minority member, a delegating unconstitutional "dictatorship" powers to the chief executive.

As the 22 hours of booming debate got under way, indications were the issue would be decided largely along party lines, with some defections in the democratic forces. A vote is not expected by leaders until late next week.

President Roosevelt requested the legislation, which would empower him to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements and raise or lower import duties 50 per cent without consent of congress.

Messersmith Named Minister to Austria

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated George S. Messersmith, former consul general in Berlin, to be minister to Austria.

Messersmith, a native of Delaware, has had long experience in the diplomatic corps and recently was named general in Berlin, to be minister to Uruguay.

He succeeds in Austria George Earle III, of Pennsylvania, who resigned to seek the democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Indian Mound Work Just Starting, Archeologist Informs Scientists

Other places in Georgia where there may be remains of Indian villages should be investigated with a view of correlating the findings with those at Macon Indian mounds, Dr. C. C. Harrell, of Macon, president of the Georgia Society of Archeologists, said Friday night at the annual banquet of the Georgia Academy of Science at the Emory university cafeteria.

Members of the academy began their twelfth annual meeting with an address of welcome by Dr. Harvey V. Cox, president of Emory, who drew attention to the importance of scientific research and urged the scientists to turn their research into fields of value to mankind rather than toward the gathering of material wealth.

Dr. Harrell said that $85,000 in CWA funds is being spent up to April 1 to build roads to the mounds near Macon and in excavating the mounds. The work is just beginning, in collaboration with the Smithsonian Institution, he said.

Dr. Harrell said that many pieces of pottery and a number of burial sites have been uncovered, and that brass buttons worn by participants in the Mexican War have been found. Near the mounds are breakworks from the War Between the States, he said.

Some of the pottery was found so close to the surface that it had been scratched by plows, he said. His talk was illustrated with lantern slides.

The Atlanta Arts Trio entertained with music at the dinner.

Dr. J. H. Kite, of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, gave a summary of the methods of treating congenital clubfoot, and reviewed several typical cases, illustrating his talk with lantern slides and motion pictures.

Dr. Kite said that recovery usually is assured if the case is obtained in its early stages.

The scientists were entertained at luncheon guests of Emory during the early afternoon, and heard the address of Alfred W. Scott, retiring president.

The reading of technical papers occupied the major portion of the afternoon.

Today's program includes a meeting of the executive council at 8 o'clock this morning, and the reading of technical papers at 9 o'clock. A business meeting will be held at 10 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock the academy will meet with the Georgia section of the American Chemical society to hear an address by Dr. V. K. LaMar, professor of physical chemistry, Columbia university. The meeting will be closed at noon.

Guests at Friday's luncheon included the members of the academy of science, as well as members of the Georgia division of the American Chemical society, the Georgia Society of Archeologists, and the Georgia Society of Naturalists.

SENATE PASSAGE SEEN ON HOUSE PAY CLAUSE

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Senate administration leaders predicted late today the senate would approve tomorrow the less liberal house federal pay provision of the independent officers bill, and the question whether another conference would be necessary to resolve differences over veterans' benefits depended on senate action on that thorny issue.

A partial conference agreement on the bill was adopted by the senate today, leaving only the disagreements over federal pay and veterans' provisions unsettled. Action on these was prevented by political speeches and a nomination fight.

Senator Robinson, the majority leader, in an interview after the senate recessed for the day, said Senator McCarran, democrat, Nevada, whose amendment for full restoration July 1, of the 15 per cent federal pay slash was adopted by the senate, would move concurrence in the less liberal house clauses.

This provides for a 5 per cent restoration as of February 1, last, another 5 per cent July 1, with authority given the president to determine if the cost of living justified full restoration.

PEN INMATES HERE MAKE OWN HOOTCH

Inmates of the Atlanta federal penitentiary persistently manufacture intoxicants for their own use and "often they drink more than they ought to," Deputy Warden Julian A. Schoen revealed Friday in United States district court.

The disclosure was brought out in his testimony at the trial of six persons accused of conspiring to smuggle narcotics into the prison.

He said the beverages are made by mixing fruit juices of various sorts with yeast and quite a "pop off" is the result.

Of course the authorities use their best efforts to stop the practice, the deputy warden continued, but they have not succeeded fully.

Prezied by attorneys for revelations more in detail, Schoen said the prisoners' appropriate juices from kitchen stores or buy fresh fruit through regular channels and squeeze out the juice. Then they obtain yeast cakes by one means or another—the witness didn't specify—and let the mixture ferment.

He described prune juice, which accumulates around the kitchens, as the favorite basis, although any fruit of juicy substance will suffice.

The examiners did not press the deputy warden for an account of the beverages' effect on the drinkers and he volunteered no description except to say "often they drink more than they ought to."

The first intimation of drinking within the prison came in the testimony of C. M. Hood, captain of the guard. He described Robert C. Gibson, an inmate and one of the defendants on trial for the drug smuggling plot, as having been observed under the influence of alcohol "of some sort" on two occasions.

Deputy Warden Schoen also gave testimony designed to link Gibson with the narcotics conspiracy. He said a hypodermic needle was found in the prisoner's possession on one occasion.

"And he had something else," Schoen related, "but we couldn't find out what it was. We thought he swallowed it."

Hugh Howell, of defense counsel, tried to lead the deputy warden into referring to the prison-made beverage as liquor, but Schoen would go no further than to call it "hootch."

Insull Agent Reported in Egypt Directing Plans for Safe Refuge

PORT SAID, Egypt, March 23.—(AP)—An agent for Samuel Insull was believed tonight to be in Egypt directing, like an unseen hand, the fugitive financier's maneuvers toward a safe refuge.

This theory, and another that the former utilities executive was remaining aboard the Greek freighter Malotis at sea pending the receipt of advice from the land representative regarding the wisest course to steer, were advanced by the radio officer of the Greek steamer Attiki.

The officer acted as the wireless intermediary between the Malotis and an Alexandria station. He said that while he was in direct contact with Alexandria, a ship representing herself as the Malotis asked if there were any messages for her.

The reply was negative. The wireless operator said that once Alexandria and the Malotis established contact and the freighter advised the Attiki her aid was no longer needed for communication.

Nevertheless, the officer said he listened-in and heard the Malotis ask for messages and give a clue as to her position—about 150 miles from this Suez canal gateway and about 20 hours' steaming distance away.

It was pointed out that the agent could be either here or at some point communicating through Alexandria with the Malotis, on which Insull fled from Greece last Sunday in an effort to escape American demands that he return to the United States to face charges growing out of the collapse of the Insull utilities.

Lookouts at Port Said, meanwhile, had not sighted the Malotis tonight, testimony designed to link Gibson with the narcotics conspiracy. He said a hypodermic needle was found in the prisoner's possession on one occasion.

"And he had something else," Schoen related, "but we couldn't find out what it was. We thought he swallowed it."

Hugh Howell, of defense counsel, tried to lead the deputy warden into referring to the prison-made beverage as liquor, but Schoen would go no further than to call it "hootch."

Deputy Warden Schoen also gave testimony designed to link Gibson with the narcotics conspiracy. He said a hypodermic needle was found in the prisoner's possession on one occasion.

N. Y. TAXICAB WAR PROBED BY JURY

LaGuardia Warns Both Sides 'Chicago Practices' Will Not Be Tolerated.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—With Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia asserting that "we will not tolerate Chicago practices" and fleet owners threatening to ask the intervention of Governor Herbert H. Lehman, the taxicab war became a subject of grand jury investigation today.

As street fighting, which caused the injury of 60 persons, subsided, Mayor LaGuardia lashed at the taxi owners, indicating his belief strike-breakers were being imported from Chicago and asserting that such a move would be stamped out by police.

"We will not tolerate Chicago practices," shouted the mayor after hearing of the owners' threat to ask Governor Lehman to intervene for the protection of working drivers and passengers.

"We will not permit starvation wages to be paid by any company from Chicago or any other company. The Chicago companies are not going to import Chicago strike-breakers into New York. Criminal racketeers on either side will be dealt with harshly."

Police Commissioner John E. O'Rourke was called before the New York county grand jury, remaining in the chambers for about a half hour. He declined to discuss his testimony, saying:

"I was the guest of these gentlemen of the jury. I paid my visit and enjoyed it very much."

Answering newspaper advertisements of fleet owners proposing that troops be called out to end rioting and disorder, Mayor LaGuardia said: "That's just the Chicago attitude. Having found that they cannot control municipal officials here, they are now seeking to offend and hide the fact that they have been paying starvation wages."

"Of course, the mayor cannot get into an argument with any discarded ruffian from Chicago. This applies to both sides."

CWA WILL PLACE 20,000 IN CITIES

was launched. The FERA, which will support the CWA, wants to take care of city people on city projects and rural people on the farm program. Miss Fitzsimmons pointed out that in the 6-point program for urban activity it is planned to use 15 per cent of the persons employed in projects calling for the remodeling and repair of houses in lieu of rent for relief families, demolition of useless and condemned structures and assistance in public-owned housing. This gave rise to the belief that those on relief pay rolls will be employed on the projected housing programs for Techwood Flats and the Atlanta University area.

She said the rest of the number, with 20 per cent undistributed, would be used as follows:

Thirty per cent on construction and improvement of city, state and national parks, game and fish preserves and recreational facilities. Workers for the sewer project and other public improvements will be provided by this division.

Fifteen per cent for the production of goods, food and clothing for persons in need. These people will work in the fields as well as in factories.

Seven per cent on public health work, nursing, recreation, traffic and safety control and similar activities.

Three per cent on planning projects designed for use by other relief workers.

Ten per cent on public education, arts and research work.

HOUSE BODY HEARS COMMUNISM LAID TO "BRAIN TRUST"

other institutions that had been making "brain trusts" why President Roosevelt would not see through the alleged scheme, and quoted them as replying that they were "on the inside" and could "make the president believe that he is making decisions for himself."

The letter said the "brain trust" members did not expect President Roosevelt to "see" this revolution through.

"They said," Wirt wrote, "that such individuals can be induced to kindle the fires of revolution. But strong men must take their place when the country is once engulfed in flames."

Hand frequently interrupted Rand's reading of his own statement and of the Wirt letter was repeatedly interrupted. Representative Bulwinkle, Democrat, North Carolina, insisted that he name the "brain trusts," but Rand replied that he could not and suggested that Wirt be called.

"Are you going to make a direct charge, or by inference that President Roosevelt has surrounded himself with men advocating the overthrow of the government?" asked Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas.

Again Rand suggested that Wirt be called.

"We are not going to call Doctor Giff," retorted Rayburn, "we haven't called anyone."

Doctor Wirt told reporters at Gary that Rand had telephoned him this morning and obtained permission to use his letters. He declined to name any of the professors until "I see what they want to do at Washington."

TRAFFIC SURVEY APPROVED BY KEY

and the necessity of uniform traffic laws will be inaugurated soon by the motor club, it was said.

Meanwhile auto fatalities continued, with two Atlantans being killed Thursday in accidents in south Georgia and Florida. A number of minor accidents were reported in Atlanta Friday.

Albert Pruitt, 10-year-old school boy son of Mrs. M. W. Nichols, of 549 Peachtree Battle avenue, was said to be in a "fair" condition Friday at the Crawford W. Long hospital.

He was seriously injured Thursday when he was struck by a car driven by a negro as he stepped from a street car near his home. The negro was being held on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

J. A. Wise Jr., of 3391 Stewart avenue, Hapeville, was fined $100 Friday in city criminal court on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Judge James M. Wood also placed Wise in a 12-month probation, during which time he will not be permitted to drive, and must report regularly to probation officers.

Wise ran over Jack Manning, city fireman, on February 10, while Manning was standing on the sidewalk in front of a fire station. Manning is still in the hospital from injuries sustained at the time.

Eddie Mims, negro, was given a $50 fine and 12 months' probation on a similar charge, and Bing Johnson, of 1260 Francis street, N. W., was fined $25 or three months for failing to stop after an accident.

MAN'S HEAD INJURED IN TRUCK-CAR CRASH

Roy Manning, of 711 Garard avenue, N. W., was admitted to Grady hospital Friday night for treatment of head injuries after his truck, he was driving collided with a street car at Hemphill avenue and Fourteenth street early in the evening. Manning was said not to be injured severely.

Court Holds Repeal Frees Dry Prisoners

Hiram Nichols, assistant United States district attorney, announced Friday that the supreme court of the District of Columbia had rendered a decision holding that all persons serving sentences for violations of the old prohibition law gained their freedom with repeal.

Repeal, the court held, was really a pardon. The decision was made in the case of a prisoner who argued his own case.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of the federal court here, held a few weeks ago that repeal nullified only pending cases and did not apply to offenders who had begun their sentences before repeal.

The District of Columbia court has the same jurisdiction as the district courts. The question will have to be determined finally by the supreme court.

MRS. E. G. EPPERSON SR. OF HAPEVILLE, PASSES

Mrs. Collette Hunt Epperson, 50, widely known resident of Hapeville, died Friday morning at a private hospital. She was the widow of Edward B. Epperson, Sr., and was the daughter of the late Judge John J. Hunt and Julia Morrow Hunt. Mrs. Epperson was born in Griffin, Ga., and had resided in Hapeville for the last 12 years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Harold Sims funeral home in Hapeville. The Rev. G. W. Gask will conduct the service and interment will be in the family burial ground in Oakhill cemetery.

Mrs. Epperson is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Epperson Clontz; two sons, Edward G. Epperson Jr. and Bill Epperson; two sisters, Mrs. M. Brannen, of Savannah, and Mrs. M. E. Gilbert, of Newport, Ky.; two brothers, Hugh E. Hunt, of Newport, Ky., and John J. Hunt Jr., of Atlanta; and a grandchild, Joe Clontz.

Proof May Be Asked Of Wallace Accuser

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The farm administration may ask John Brandt, president of the Land of Lakes Creamery of Minneapolis, to prove at a formal hearing charges he made against Secretary Wallace.

Meanwhile, in the absence of the secretary of agriculture, his assistant, William Wallace, is expected to return to the department of agriculture and farm administration. He was informed he would not be welcomed unless he retracted statements about the department of agriculture.

Back of the furor is dissatisfaction by some co-operative officials with the administration's milk policies. Secretary Wallace was expected to return to the department of agriculture tonight.

Brandt said before representatives of dairy co-operative marketing associations called to draft a protest against the milk policy, that Wallace was "unreliable" and had failed to carry out an agreement to purchase butter bought by Land of Lakes to stabilize the market.

HOUSE WILL VOTE ON NEGRO'S RIGHT IN CAPITOL CAFE

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Enough members added today to the petition by Representative De Priest, Republican, Illinois, congress only negro member, to put the question whether negroes shall eat in the restaurant squarely up to that legislative branch.

The De Priest resolution, however, calls only for an investigation of the authority of Representative Lindsay Warren, Democrat, North Carolina, chairman of the accounts committee, to bar negroes from the restaurant.

But the 14th signature to the petition—that of Representative Seger, Republican, New Jersey—which meant that the entire membership will decide on April 9 whether it will take De Priest's resolution from the rules committee, where it has lain for weeks, in reality put the entire issue up to the house.

Warren today in a 20-minute speech defended his action in barring the negroes. His democratic colleagues gave him an ear-splitting round of applause but about that time Seger signed the petition.

De Priest introduced the resolution late in January after his secretary, Morris Lewis, and a negro companion were refused food in the public dining room upon orders of Warren.

De Priest, backed by the republican minority generally, was confident he would be successful in forcing the issue to its final conclusion, although some democrats took consolation in the fact that his resolution calls only for an investigation and that Warren's position may be sustained in the end.

INVESTIGATORS SEE SPY CONNECTIONS IN FRENCH ARMY

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—Whether activities of a far-flung spy ring extended into the French army was a question on which the efforts of Andre Benon, investigating magistrate, were concentrated today.

After questioning Colonel Doumoulin, retired army officer and editor of a military publication who was known as an active member of the band, Benon turned his activity toward the army.

Doumoulin denied he knew Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Switz, young American couple, who, police said, have confessed activity in the espionage plot.

The former officer was arrested following sensational disclosures of the Americans. Despite Doumoulin's denial that he knew the Switzes, Benon was still not satisfied that the full relations between the couple and the Americans were kept the utmost secrecy on activities of a mysterious American woman who is thought to hold the key to much of the gang's work.

She has not been arrested.

Two Sentenced To Die In Soviet Train Wreck

SVERDLOVSK, U. S. S. R.—(AP)—Two men were sentenced today to death in the Soviet Union for their role in a train wreck in which 33 were killed.

The engineer of the passenger train and the station master of Tatarsk, near where the wreck occurred March 12, were sentenced to be shot.

Five others charged with responsibility in the wreck, members of the military publication crew, were given prison terms.

The collision occurred after the passenger train, traveling at high speed, ran through a closed tunnel at the station of Tatarsk.

Rumanian Death Plot Uncovered; Friend of Queen Helen Arrested

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 23.—(AP)—Plans to assassinate Premier George Tatescu and other government leaders were declared by police to have been revealed today.

The revelation was made, authorities said, by the arrest of Professor Gomoju, one of the most prominent surgeons in Rumania and a close friend of Queen Helen, and a member of the national organization, "Kultur Ex-Patria," which is strongly sympathetic with the fascist iron guard.

Gomoju was charged with sending threatening letters to members of the government and other influential persons throughout the country.

During Helen's residence in Bucharest, Gomoju was one of her intimate friends and advisors.

The matter is now going to the supreme court, but it is said that Gomoju is in close touch with Rumanian Macedonians, as he was born a Macedonian.

League Council Head Succumbs in France

PARIS, March 24 (Saturday)—(AP) Raoul Anadon, president of the League of Nations council and son of the first president of Panama, died last night after a short illness. He was 53 years old.

His mother, Maria Anadon, his wife and a few friends were present at the death. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Dr. Raoul A. Anadon, who died last night in Paris, was for several years consul general in New York for Panama. He was chosen president of the League council for its October, 1933, session. He was a graduate of Columbia University, New York city.

Mr. Anadon was also Panama minister to Paris. Immediately before the opening of the 77th session of the league council over which he presided he was appointed minister plenipotentiary to the League.

ROGERS WILL FEATURE SINGER, RADIO STAR

One of the featured entertainers at the Rogers Food Show beginning March 29 at the Palais Peachtree and the budget, took the department severely to task for failing to effect economies in administration and failing to consider seriously "a survey of schools which I caused to have made."

He asserted that if the economies had been followed, salary cuts for teachers would not have been so heavy.

The budget, calling for expenditures of $2,740,085.44 for the year, of which $2,413,329.66 is for salaries of various employees.

Key warned that the "petty despotism cannot long prevail. Teachers will find a way out of the whirl of the school department. They will find out they are the victims of the machine they helped to operate, and they will discontinue that method of operation."

Text of Message.

Text of the mayor's message to the board follows:

"I am returning the budget of the school department as submitted by you for the year 1934 with my approval. I am approving this budget only because it meets the legal requirements—otherwise, I would disapprove it."

The law requires that I see that the school budget is within the appropriation of the general council for the year; that condition is met. It also requires that I see that the budget sets up the salaries for its employees for the fiscal year. This is met—and beyond that I have no authority.

"I wish you to know, however, that I do not approve the method by which you have made this budget and the cuts in wages and salaries that have been inflicted upon the teaching force of this city. You have in this budget a setup that you have had heretofore. There are a number of departments that could be dispensed with. There is a great deal of personnel that is entirely unnecessary. There are many wastes and extravagances in the administration that could be avoided. I have taken occasion to present some of these heretofore in the survey which I had made of the school department. None of these suggestions were seriously considered and none of them were put into practice."

Teachers' Cuts Hit.

"You have made a cut in salaries, ranging from 4 per cent to 20 per cent, but the great burden of the reduction of salaries falls upon the already poorly paid teachers. It must be a great disappointment to them when they study this budget and see where many economies could have been and should have been affected, and also see that their pay checks that they have had to pay are cut."

"I am sure that you will receive a vigorous protest from them about this. Many protests have come to me—most of them anonymous—but I know that they were genuine and sincere, as these teachers have poured out their hearts to me because they could not get a hearing from anyone else."

"They have to write anonymously through fear. It would mean probably the loss of their positions if they did otherwise."

"This petty despotism cannot long prevail. They will find a way to be heard and find an opportunity to voice their protest. They will find that they have been drawn along as a part of an elaborate machine to carry out the whims of the school department. Now they find out that they are the victims of the machine which they have helped operate, and they will discontinue that method of operation."

Harrelson's Letter.

"You will remember this morning I wrote you a letter in which Mr. T. C. Clift, business manager of our schools, and presented to you our budget. You will also remember that I stated that if there were any questions or explanations which you would like to have we would be glad to answer them."

"I am sure that my presence with Mr. Clift was due to the fact that heretofore on occasions of this nature you have insulted our administrative forces and embarrassed them by some of your tirades. I felt that you would not have the nerve to make any of your assaults on the schools with me present, and that you would feel sure that I would answer them with logic, reason and facts in such a manner as would prove you to be playing with politics."

"You know, it would be honest in your statements, that you necessitated the reductions which were made in the salaries of the school employees by your refusal to allow the schools to budget against the $300,000, which was and still is a part of our 20 per cent figuring our revenue on the same basis as you operated in budgeting for other departments."

In the past two years we have saved about a million and a half dollars in the school department as against 1931 operations, while during the same period you have saved comparatively nothing according to the figures I have from Comptroller West. By elimination of visual education, testing and guidance and kindergarten, together with supervisors, the aggregate saving would not amount to more than 41.2 per cent, while at the same time you have thrown 75 people out of employment, saying nothing of the loss to our school system and children of the city of Atlanta. If you wanted to make a statement concerning the schools, you had the press in your office when I was there this morning, and you knew what you wanted to say. If you are so fearless, why did you not then announce our criticism in order that I could have replied face to face."

Bandits Get $26,000
In Pay Roll Holdup

BROCKTON, Mass., March 23.—(AP)—A bandit car backed full speed into a bank delivery truck here today forcing it to the curb while, covered by pistols, a shotgun and a sub-machine gun, two bank employees were forced to order a $26,000 pay roll to five masked robbers.

Slashing the front tires of the bank truck, the bandits jumped into their machine and sped northward.

CHICAGO, March 23.—(UP)—The hideaway in which John Dillinger stayed after his spectacular escape from the Crown Point, Ind., jail with a wooden pistol and which he fled hurriedly last Wednesday was located by Chicago police.

ROOSEVELT URGES JOB INSURANCE

fund has been accumulated, even a small payment from it at such a critical time will tide over the worker and keep up his morale and purchasing power.

"Extent of Benefits.

"The benefits of such a system will not be limited to the individual, however, but will extend throughout our social and financial fabric. We have in the past relied almost entirely upon private charities and public treasuries to sustain the costs of seasonal and intermittent unemployment. This is a practice that necessity will compel us to change to a very substantial degree. There is no reason why they should assume the entire burden of unemployment, for the most part, the cost of which ought to be computed and borne like any other cost of a business."

"Of course, unemployment insurance alone will not make unnecessary all relief for all people out of work for the entire period of a major economic depression, but it is my confident belief that such funds will, by maintaining the purchasing power of those temporarily out of work, act as a stabilizing device in our economic structure and as a method of retarding the rapid downward spiral curve and the onset of severe economic crises."

Urges States Approach.

"I am interested to see that the bill before your committee seeks to promote unemployment insurance under a state rather than a federal law. This is an approach with which I agree, and which fulfills the promise of the democratic platform for 1932 to favor 'unemployment insurance under state laws.' The states are peculiarly equipped to administer legislation of this type, and the recent efforts of this administration in such a closely allied field as the creation of public employment offices have been along this line."

"The bill has another advantage in establishing a suitable relation of the national government to unemployment insurance. Under our system of government, the task of caring for the unemployed falls primarily on the states. If a state cannot bear the burden, the United States must be prepared to do so and to collect revenue for that purpose. That is why this bill is properly considered a revenue measure. But if a state, by requiring local industry to contribute to unemployment reserves, has cared for its needy and avoided a strain upon the federal treasury, such contributions ought to be deductible from federal taxes."

"The general principles of H. R. 7650 seem to me sound, and the effect sought a necessary one for recovery and prevention of future economic crises; and I hope that the bill will be passed by the congress at this session."

Third Blast Victim.

MURPHY, N. C., March 23.—(UP)—Alex Stewart, 17, third victim of a four-story ship's grill mill near here last Saturday, died in a hospital today from burns and other complications.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 24, 1934.

HOW RELIEF WILL CONTINUE.

News of the activities of the various branches of the federal recovery program comes from Washington in such daily volume that the average newspaper reader undoubtedly has a hazy idea as to just what the exact situation is with reference to the status of the so-called "alphabetical" agencies.

This lack of exact information on the part of the public is especially noticeable in the elimination of the CWA from the relief picture now being carried out. In only a few weeks the CWA will be a thing of the past, a fact that is generally known, but there is less knowledge of the works division of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration which will take its place in furnishing employment to the millions who would otherwise be thrown back into idleness.

On April 1 the CWA will be largely a memory but in its place will stand the WD of FERA, with more than 1,500,000 workers on its rolls as of that date, with the rates of pay and hours of work being practically the same as that received under CWA.

Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins in a recent statement outlines the difference between the two agencies as follows:

The CWA was a federal project and the people who worked for it were federal employees. In the WD of FERA they are employees of the cities, counties and states. The new plan is, substantially, a grant in aid to the several states and through them to the cities and counties.

In the second place, the CWA was an emergency measure and 4,000,000 were given jobs at going rates of wages. In contrast to that, this is the beginning of a policy that needs unemployed, who are able to work, shall gain their benefits through work on public projects. It is not limited as to time, as was the CWA, and it will involve—although I cannot define it for you now—a more sharp determination of the kind of projects. My guess is that three-fourths or four-fifths of the old CWA projects will prove to be eligible for this new one, so that cities and counties can begin to plan with us for a long-time program.

Thus, although the CWA will be soon discontinued the idea of work in return for relief will, in effect, be continued through the federal grants to local governments for public works.

The new relief agency is flexible enough to care for whatever variations may occur in unemployment, but it is the belief of federal authorities that the trend will be steadily downward, as more and more of the idle are put back to work in business and industry as the country continues to respond to the various phases of the recovery program.

RENO DIVORCES IN QUESTION.

The recent action of a Washington court in holding that a Reno divorce is not valid in the District of Columbia has, according to the United States News, put "many Washingtonians, some high in official circles, with Reno divorces, to wondering—and the puzzle is not confined to the nation's capital."

This is particularly true because of the grounds upon which the Reno divorce of a Washington citizen was held to be no good—that the six-week stay in Nevada required by the laws of that state prior to the filing of a divorce suit does not constitute "residence" but is more in the nature of a "visit."

The court ruled that the husband in question had never given up his Washington residence and that he had evidently never had any intention of making his home in Nevada, either permanently or for an indeterminate length of time.

Therefore the wife in question, who after her husband had secured a Reno divorce, had filed a divorce suit of her own in Washington, was given her divorce, plus alimony and attorney's fees.

Thus to all intents and purposes the trip of the husband to Reno was valueless to him and the divorce he secured there becomes no more than a "scrap of paper."

The divorce mills of Nevada have ground out thousands of divorces, separating couples by the hundreds in every state in the Union, practically all of them secured on the same basis of residence which is declared insufficient by the District of Columbia court.

While the decision is effective only in the jurisdiction of the court in which it was found, it nevertheless presents grounds for any dissatisfied former wife or husband whose marital bonds were severed in Reno to attack the validity of the divorce thus secured, and enter new maintenance or property settlement suits in their home courts.

It is probable that eventually the question will find its way to the supreme court in order that, once and for all, the frequently discussed validity of the quick divorces granted in such states as Nevada and Arkansas may be definitely decided.

LET THE BUYER BEWARE.
Certain citizens, who are long on thirst and short on 69-cent dollars, and who have been accustomed to calling up Bill when corners of the jug in the pantry were nearing the bottom, experienced a brief thrill last Saturday when it was announced that Uncle Sam's collector of internal revenue, who does business in the Atlanta federal building, would sell seized liquid lightning at $2 and up per gallon.

Since Bill's price fluctuates between $3 and $4 per standard gallon, that appeared to be a distinct break in favor of said thirsty citizens. But alas, also a lack, the advertised disposal of corn juice, synthetic gin, or what have you, had a couple of strings tied to it that were likely to get a thirsty citizen all bound around, so to speak.

The federal financial representative has no intention of disposing of the government's liquid stores according to the long-established Georgia custom. A thirsty citizen will receive only a metallic ha-ha via the Southern Bell's justly celebrated wire service should he call Walnut 5844 and order a gallon of corn brought post-haste to apartment 904-G.

Moreover, the collector will not arrange for government salesmen to meet prospective customers under the viaduct, at the corner beer dispensary or down by the freight house.

He is going to dispose of this youth rejuvenator by auction. Fancy that!

In order to be in on the distribution a citizen must join assembled citizens and actually run up the price on each other, in order to obtain enough to entertain guests who drop in Saturday night and hang around until late Sunday morning, when the jug refuses to gurgle any more.

In addition, it will be a case of caveat emptor, as the Latin professor who turned horse trader told the man to whom he sold a wind-broken horse with a spavin on both hind legs.

For having purchased a certain quantity of whoopee juice, handed over sufficient deflated dollars to pay for same, a citizen is likely to have a rough guy poke him in the ribs and say: "Well, brother, come along down to the hoosegow. You are under arrest by the state of Georgia for possessing liquor, contrary to the laws and dignity of said sovereign state."

So, despite all the free advertising this sale has had, it may prove to be poorly attended, as there appears no way to bar the appearance of state officers. It appears that thirty citizens will not throw away Bill's telephone number just yet; for it is a case of buy from him, go thirsty, or wait till Josh comes down from the mountains with his next load.

A hard nut to crack is the peanut politician.

It's not horseplay when you play the wrong horse to win.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Saint Francis.

Recently I arrived too early at a railway station in a certain eastern town and strolled around the neighborhood of the depot. There was a church there and I entered. It was a church dedicated to St. Francis of Assisi. Outside the traffic was roaring and busy people rushed by, but inside was stillness. There were a few women praying, but for the rest I was alone and I sat there meditating upon the course of events and how in this world all the ideals for which St. Francis stood and which he lifted to reality, how all these higher values seem to be sinking away into nothingness.

Instead of brotherly love, there is hatred. And this hatred is not spontaneous anger, but artificially stimulated and whipped up into frenzy. What is wrong with us? Why do we hate so much easier than we love? Is it because of the economic situation, the sense of futility, of humiliation and shame, that we turn so easily to hatred? If that is true, if our likes and dislikes are determined by our economic situation, then the Maras are right, for they have always preached this. But it would seem to me that just exactly in days of storm and stress, of great changes and vital decisions, just then is the time to know the validity of our ideals and of our faith.

It is easy to be on good terms with the world when everything is going right. But it is harder to remain friendly and neighborly when things are not going so well. Our time is a test. If we are Christians, if we are in earnest about our Christianity, then this is the hour to show the world the healing qualities of Christianity. Now is the time to show that Christianity means something that stands out above the battle, above the turmoil of every day life and strife, that it has a morale which is a spiritual armament that can withstand any shock.

Let us refuse to hate. No matter what happens, let us refuse to look for weak and innocent victims on whom to unload our anger and our sense of frustration. For if we fall victims to the storm of hatred that is sweeping through the world now, then we will not be worthy of the name of Christians.

Health Talks

THE MOST COSTLY FOOD.

Of Doc Webster is not so hot when it comes to technical medical questions yet seldom find fault with his ideas—trying to give the cry a break in his next edition. Food, says the leucographer, is nutritive material absorbed or taken into the body of an organism for purposes of growth or repair and for the maintenance of the vital processes. We reckon we can't improve on that definition.

A skin specialist, perhaps bored to extinction hanging around the office waiting for the next patient, lectured before a lunch club on the art of drinking, according to an item sent by our Michigan scout. Alcohol, according to this lunch club savant, is "an excellent food requiring no expensive digestion and offering no difficulty to absorption, assimilation and elimination," provided you take only small quantities at each bout. "About two ounces can be used daily by the average person as a food," the item makes the doctor say. "It is most useful to the physician in treating cases where there is no appetite, low vitality and digestive and eliminative functions have ceased."

Now easily this skin specialist settles the perplexing problem of the utilization of alcohol in the human economy. While physiologists, chemists and scientific experts struggle endlessly with the question of alcohol as a clear understanding, dentists, skin specialists and brass scrupulously try to do an attend the lunch club shindy and the boys precisely what's what, and may be get their names mentioned in the paper to boot.

To get two ounces of alcohol you'd have to drink two quarts of beer, or a pint of American wine, or 1-1/2 pints of European wine. Quite a load in itself to pour all that liquid down your gullet and still attend to your business if any yet avoid being offended by the traffic cops.

Two and one-half bottles of beer, a bottle of Scotch—1 mean Yankeland. Two bottles for breakfast, two bottles for lunch, and 1-1/2 bottles for dinner—you'd want to save your pie of course. The skin specialist doubling as a nutrition authority did not specify the average person consuming two ounces of alcohol a day attends to any other duties or partakes of any food that requires digestion, absorption, combustion, elimination and everything.

From 2 ounces of alcohol, even if it were possible for anyone to oxidize, metabolize, burn or utilize as food or for any other purpose, the organism could derive only 465 calories. It is a rather paltry sum, is it not? In modern medical practice sugar is the substance which seems desirable or necessary to provide fuel or energy quickly. It is sugar solution, not alcohol, that we inject into the veins in emergencies. It is sugar or carbohydrate food, fuel, nutriment, not alcohol, that all athletes depend on to sustain them through the ordeal.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

JAPAN WASHINGTON, March 23.—When anyone extends a hand across the seas these days, it is customary to look in his sleeve for chisels.

The Japanese have big sleeves. Our state department skeptics looked into them thoroughly after Japanese Foreign Minister Hirota wrote that mass note to State Secretary Hull. They thought it was too good to be true. They still think so.

You may have noticed that President Roosevelt had nothing to say about the subject. When the matter was broached at a press conference, he failed to recall that there had been an exchange of notes between the Japanese and his state secretary.

* Also, Secretary Hull gave out the notes without the usual statement about such things " heralding a new era of peace," etc., etc. There are reasons why.

DATES The Japanese note was handed to Mr. Hull February 27. That was exactly one week before the date set for crowning Japan's choice, Henry Pu Yi, as emperor of Manchukuo.

It did not take Mr. Hull long to catch the trick in that. If he replied before the mock enthronement of Pu Yi, it would look as if he approved. Any reciprocal friendly feeling he expressed for Japan would be interpreted in the light of the Pu Yi coronation.

What Mr. Hull and the rest of the world think about the Manchukuo matter is well known. They have told Japan plenty of times they will not recognize the territory gained by Japanese conquest.

So Mr. Hull slipped the honeyed words of Foreign Minister Hirota in the bottom drawer of his desk, and breathed not a word to a soul.

Two days after the coronation he wrote his reply. That was exactly nine days after the Hirota note was received. In the reply he was just as nice and just as indefinite as the Japanese foreign minister was.

MEANING The truth is President Roosevelt, Mr. Hull et al would like to see something important arise from the Japanese gesture, but they know it is well nigh impossible. They fully expect Japan will follow her note with a definite proposal for a bilateral naval agreement sometime within the next few days. They also know they will have to sidestep or reject such a proposal.

All our current naval agreements with Japan include Great Britain. We could not change them without consulting the ex-mistress of the seas.

That was one of the hidden meanings in Mr. Hull's reply. Mr. Hirota intimated Japan would like to talk with the United States alone about Pacific problems. In reply Mr. Hull expressed a hope that "all the countries which have interests in the far east" might approach the problem together.

The significance of that phrase was obvious to London and Tokyo.

DIVERGENCE Even more important is the fact that we know what the Japanese proposal will be. They want naval equality, not the short end of the 5-3 ratio now existing.

There is no gain for us in agreeing to equality. We are building. Our resources are limitless. Japan has not reached the limit of her taxing ability. An agreement would stop us.

The Japanese also want revision of the law excluding them as immigrants. The state department has a secret office memo on that subject. The memo was written by one of its divisions for private use. It counsels against reopening the immigration question at this time because congress enacted the law and congress is in no mood to change it. This is a congressional election year.

Pacific coast states have some very decided views on Japanese exclusion.

The third thing wanted by the Japanese is recognition of Manchukuo. That is impossible unless we want to take back everything we have said during the past two years.

ROOT The hidden root of the current move is Russo-Japanese relations. The friendly Japanese gesture toward us is probably the best hint that she expects war with the Soviets. The Japanese want us on their side, or at least neutral.

We will be neutral, but nothing more.

AIR MAIL The army air corps is not taking its mail troubles tragically. They seem to believe their comrades who have died would have been eager to sacrifice their lives if they could have foreseen the benefits the service may derive.

Particularly they are cheerful about getting away from domination by the army general staff, and getting more appropriations from congress for modernization.

NOTES An important official in a bureau under the treasury department is about to resign. Higher officials did not care for his tactics! But the parting will be amicably arranged for political purposes.

Ogden Mills took care to say throughout his New York speech that he was not speaking for the republican party, but only for himself. That was the result of inner complaints from the congressional group that in a previous speech Mills unwittingly created the impression he was speaking for the party.

The worst pun of the spring season is the one that Colonel Lindbergh has been "Derned" by the security of war.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

My Dear Louise:

Yesterday afternoon, being full of education and impudence, you informed me that my indigestion results from fasting. Eatink too little, you explained, had weakened my stomach and taken away its ability to do a man's work.

If I neglected to thank you for the lesson, I do so now. It will serve to point a moral. I suppose all literate people know that a muscle's strength is developed by use. Even the heart muscles grow weak for want of exercise, and then a man says he has "lost his wind."

But muscles aren't the only things that grow flabby for want of use. Character is another.

Whatever character may be, it is something that grows strong under the burden of responsibility and for want of responsibilities becomes weak and worthless.

Find a person who has no sense of responsibility and you have one whose character is mush.

Find one who has a sense of responsibility and you have one who grows to match his burdens. His sense of duty becomes a habit, and habit is the framework of character.

You know a typical middle-class family of five people—one good provider and four good consumers. I mean "Slim" and his tribe.

Well, "Slim" has a sense of responsibility. He didn't have much of it when he was led to the altar, but he accumulated it as he accumulated a family.

Now the habit of thinking about and for others has become second nature. Because he feels responsible, he is the one who remembers when taxes are due, notices a dripping faucet, calls for prudence at the first symptom of a cold, thinks of the iodine when a finger is cut, remembers to order coal—in short, thinks of everything and does every thing to keep his house in order.

And the other four, spurred for want of burdens and duties, live in a pleasant dream world, utterly irresponsible and thoughtless and happy. They never worry. They think the Lord will provide—meaning "Slim."

The result is that "Slim" is a tower of strength in any emergency and the others can't stand alone. If the house got afire they would merely stand and howl. They can't think, except of themselves.

Find a set of responsibilities, my dear. Adopt a flock of them. In no other way can you develop the character that makes fine womanhood.

Boston Banker Named France Strikes Blow Aid to Morgenthau At Americans' Trade

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP)—Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, Boston banker, today was appointed special assistant to Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., to handle treasury fiscal affairs.

Coolidge, a vice president of the First National Bank of Boston, will take over the work usually handled by the undersecretary.

At present the post of undersecretary is vacant following the resignation last fall of Dean G. Acheson. It was understood that Coolidge might be moved up to that post in the near future.

He will take office April 2. Fiscal affairs of the treasury following Acheson's resignation were handled by Earle Baille, Wall Street banker, who relinquished his post in January.

DAY IN WASHINGTON.

By the Associated Press.
Union representatives conferred again with President Roosevelt on the automobile labor controversy.

Entrance into the world court was advocated by Alfred E. Smith and others at a senate committee hearing.

President Roosevelt made it known that he favored a stock exchange control bill with teeth in it.

Eugene Black, governor of the federal reserve board, gave the board's unreserved support to the revised stock exchange bill.

Joseph H. Choate Jr., alcohol administrator, indicated distilleries would be allowed to increase production capacity.

House committees heard associations that presidential advisors planned to impede recovery and thus encourage communism.

Hugh S. Johnson and Joseph B. Eastman mediated in the automobile and railway labor controversies.

It was stated at the White House that President Roosevelt would not take part in local political battles.

Senator Hastings, republican leader, said the public was not contented with the present situation in the automobile and railway labor controversies.

Gerard Swope, of General Electric, advised more study before enactment of an unemployment insurance bill.

The comptroller of the currency called for a condition statement as of March 5 for national banks.

Representative De Priest, Illinois negro, obtained assurance of a house vote on whether negroes may eat in the house restaurant.

CLARK SEEKS INVESTIGATION OF LUMBER CODE WORKINGS
Senator Clark, democrat, Missouri, said Friday that he intended to introduce in the senate Monday a resolution asking a federal trade commission investigation into the administration and workings of the lumber code.

Informed of Clark's contemplated action tonight, Carl W. Bahr, secretary of the lumber code authority, said the Missouri senator "has insisted on lower wages" in the lumber industry and that he represented a group that sought special favors.

CHOATE EXPECTS TO APPROVE LIQUOR PRODUCTION LIKE
Joseph H. Choate Jr., federal alcohol control administrator, said Friday applications from about 40 distillers to increase their production capacity to around 44,000,000 gallons of liquor yearly were under consideration and he indicated most of them would be granted in a few days.

In discussing the liquor situation with newsmen, Choate indicated that tariff barriers were so high that American refiners found it impractical to bring liquor in from abroad under the terms of the relaxation of import restrictions.

FARLEY MAY RESIGN POSTAL FURLOUGH ORDER
Should there be a "noticeable increase" in postal revenues, Postmaster-General Farley intends to rescind his recent order furloughing all regular postal employees one day a month and limiting expenditures for substitute service during the remainder of the fiscal year.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSEMEN APPROVE TRADING RULES
Trade and exchange union members of the tobacco warehousemen's code were approved Friday by committees representing 10 auction tobacco warehouse associations and a draft prepared for submission to Secretary Wallace for his approval.

The code, proposed by the National Association of Auction Tobacco Warehouse Associations, is expected to be brought to the secretary's attention early next week. Wage and hour provisions of the code still are to be passed upon by NRA.

COMMITTEE ACTION SEEN ON SUGAR MEASURE TODAY
The House committee on agriculture met Friday on a modified sugar control bill which probably will be considered tomorrow by the house agricultural committee.

Members from sugar states were reluctant to discuss provisions of the preliminary draft of the measure which is now nearly complete, but it was predicted the domestic production quota would be set at about 1,550,000 tons, 100,000 tons above the original recommendation of the administration.

DEVELOPMENTS FORECAST IN COAL WAGE CONTROVERSY
Developments were forecast Friday night in negotiations toward a new wage agreement in the Appalachian coal fields as an operators' subcommittee prepared for a crucial meeting with the miners.

The conference has until April 1 to complete a new wage agreement for the region, affecting approximately 350,000 miners.

O. MAX GARDNER NAMED FOR AIR NEGOTIATIONS
O. Max Gardner, former governor of North Carolina, has been selected by the aeronautical chamber of commerce of America to represent it in negotiations with the administration looking toward a "constructive program for commercial aviation."

Gardner, who made this announcement Friday, emphasized he is not interested in any particular company whose air mail contract has been cancelled. The chamber represents 82 per cent of the aviation industry, including all companies whose contracts were cancelled.

- Fair Enough -

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NORMALCY IN POLITICS WASHINGTON, March 23.—There is a distinct tang of politics in the atmosphere of the national capital just now which was not noticeable at the time of Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration just over a year ago.

At the time that Mr. Roosevelt took over, things were in such a mess in Washington that the sound of a backfire as some ancient flivver struggled down the street was enough to put people in mind of barricades and set them to wondering whether, in case of a march on the capital by a pitchfork and wagon-spoke army, the troops of the local garrison would obey an order to let them have it. That is no exaggeration. Things were very grim and jumpy in the last hours of Mr. Hoover's administration and labor wasn't threatening any big strikes just then, because you can't quit your job if you haven't got any job to quit.

So the present irritation of the working man over such a matter as the formal recognition of his union and the return of the political spirit among the republican statesmen might be regarded as symptoms of improvement. A year ago, after 12 years of authority, the republican statesmen did not have the nerve to go around telling people that four years more of the same thing was just what the United States needed. There wasn't anybody who could offer as much as a good excuse for the state of the country at the moment when Mr. Hoover handed it over to Mr. Roosevelt on the big pine scaffold in front of the capitol building.

RASPBERRY SEASON I was upstairs on the senate side peering out a window with a Washington journalist the day before the inauguration, discussing the plans for the ceremony. We both holler to make ourselves heard to one another above the din of the banks which were blowing up all over the country at the moment. I asked my colleague what Mr. Hoover would do after he turned the wreck over to Mr. Roosevelt, and he pointed out across the park to a long, low, green shed in the distance.

"Do you see that big old turtle-back building over yonder?" my friend said. "Well, that is our union station, and just as soon as Mr. Hoover is done good and certain that Roosevelt is it, and didn't have his fingers crossed, he is going to tear across that park and grab the tailboard of his train and holler to the conductor to let 'er roll. Then, for a long time, you will not hear anything but cheers for Mr. Roosevelt, but as soon as things begin to get a little better, some of the boys who are being kicked out now will begin to put their heads up and blow raspberries at him."

It seems impossible to keep the citizens reminded that the statesmen of the two parties are interested exclusively in their jobs and the jobs which they can deal out to their people in return for political work. The trouble seems to be that people are incurably innocent and have only occasional moments of practical sense when they realize what the politician is and what his motives are. It depresses people to think such sordid thoughts, so most of the time they select political heroes and villains who are exactly alike in all essentials.

IMPROVEMENT I am not naive enough to believe that statesmen of the opposition who are now clamoring for a chance to save the country are inspired by motives of pure patriotism, but neither do I ascribe such motives to Mr. James Farley and his democratic organization. The rise of political contention is encouraging, however, in that it suggests that things must be much better now than they were a year ago, when the opposition was in such a panic over the ruin that they did not even think it was worth fighting for.

Certainly, in the city of Washington, life is much improved. People are not carrying their savings in little bags around their necks, under their shirts, as they were in the last hours of the long republican regime, if they had been lucky enough to get to the banks in time. There is not so much back-firing in

Extreme Nationalism Scheme Assailed by Senator George

Hope of Future Lies in Maintenance of More Liberal Trade Policies, Asserts Georgia Solon.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Taking issue with proponents of the doctrine of "extreme nationalism," Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, said today Secretary Wallace had "overstated the case" and declared "the hope of the future lies in the maintenance of more liberal trade policies."

In a statement prepared at the request of the Rome (Ga.) News-Tribune, the Georgian declared:

"Followed to its rational conclusion, this doctrine may make it necessary temporarily to retire many acres of valuable land, as pointed out by Secretary Wallace. I do not believe the doctrine is sound and I do not think it will become the permanent faith of the American people."

"The policy of extreme nationalism will also tend to dry up our industries as well as general agriculture in the long run. With stagnant industries it will be necessary for men and women to go 'back to the land' not to earn a competency but as means of living and a mode of life."

Advocates of outright free trade are few, George continued, but he emphasized the restoration of a balance of foreign trade and commerce is vitally necessary for the permanent recovery, not only of the United States but of all leading commercial and industrial nations.

The senator said developments the world over justified the conclusion of Wallace that the United States stands at the crossroads and that it "must make a momentous decision so far as our agricultural and related interests are concerned," but he said "should we abandon our efforts to expand our trade and commerce abroad it would not necessarily follow that we should be compelled to abandon large areas of productive lands and shift our farm population from the agricultural to the industrial sections of the country. Exactly the contrary would likely result over a long period of time."

"The sensible program is," the Georgian said, "the protection and development of our agriculture and the development and expansion of our general industries. We must get back into the foreign market. We cannot take care of our debt, public and private, unless we turn away from the doctrine of extreme nationalism to which we have lately become so slavishly devoted."

"We may write up our inventories by depreciating our money as much as we will, but a country with a little more than $300,000,000,000 in wealth cannot pay the interest and service charges on an indebtedness which probably totals $250,000,000,000 at this time."

"The expansion of foreign trade and commerce will not alone give the answer but the restoration of this commerce and its expansion consistent with fair protection to our agriculture and industry is one of the necessary steps back towards permanent prosperity."

HASTINGS DOG SHOW TO BE OPENED TODAY

Hastings' semi-annual dog exhibition will be held at their store today from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. This exhibition will be sponsored and operated by the Atlanta Kennel Club in the interest of purebred pedigree dogs.

There will be more than 35 different breeds of dogs represented and the show will be of interest not only to dog fanciers but to dog lovers. There will be shown American champions, Canadian champions, English champions, international champions, dogs that recently won blue and purple ribbons at the Westminster dog show, at the Century of Progress dog show last summer.

There will be about 75 purebred registered dogs, representing some 25 or 30 breeds, including several champions that will be of almost universal interest.

Miss Catherine Erwin's Crain terrier, daughter of the international champion, "The Coming Storm," which won best of breed in the Atlanta show last spring; Miss Pam Johnston's imported dachshund, which so far has not been defeated in any show; Mr. and Mrs. Laughridge's schnauzer, Champion Asta Von Sonnenbach, are among them.

Also there will be shown for the first time in Atlanta and possibly for the first time in the south a Schipperke. This very unusual dog is owned by Idewood kennels, J. F. Schelver, owner. Mr. and Mrs. Bailles will show their Scottish terrier, which won numerous prizes at the Chicago World Fair as well as at the two Atlanta shows. There will also be shown C. H. McKibben's Scottish terrier, which won best of show in Atlanta last October.

Good Friday will be observed with sermon on "The Cross" at 11 o'clock Friday morning, followed by communion services. Classes for instruction of children in the meaning of church membership will be held by Dr. Johnson at 3 o'clock Monday and Tuesday afternoons. Dr. R. L. Russell, presiding elder of Atlanta district, will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Authorities at Waycross Friday had not identified the man who with E. D. Bohannon, of 865 Ogletowne avenue, Atlanta, was burned to death near Mattox, Ga., Thursday morning when their automobile overturned. Mr. Bohannon was identified shortly after the accident by his brother-in-law, E. O. Mullins, of Atlanta, who was thought to have been in the car with him.

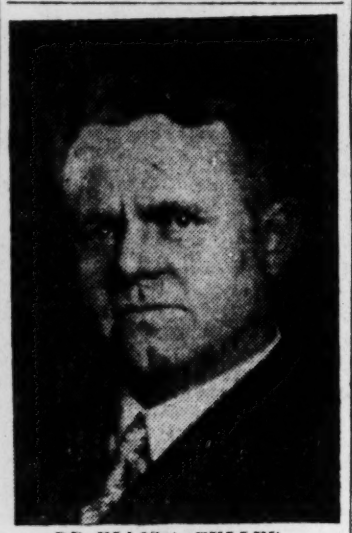

Opinion was expressed that the second man was a hitch-hiker whom Mr. Bohannon had picked up on the road from Jacksonville. He and Mr. Mullins had traveled to Jacksonville Wednesday and separated there.

DR. M. ASHBY JONES OFFERS CONTRASTS

Dr. M. Ashby Jones will preach Sunday morning at the Central Congregational church on "Palm Sunday vs. Good Friday." This is a study of the violent contrast between the "Howanna in the Highest" of the crowd on Sunday and the "Crucify Him" of the same crowd on Friday.

SERVICES ANNOUNCED BY FIRST BAPTIST

A series of evangelistic services has been announced by the First Baptist church, corner Peachtree and Fourth streets. The week of services begins Sunday morning and extends through

DR. ELLIS A. FULLER.

The Sunday night service, Easter, April 1. During the week there will be services nightly at 7:30 o'clock, except Saturday.

The series of sermons will be preached by the pastor, Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, who will use texts each day from the corresponding day of the last week of the Savior's life. Dr. Fuller will give these texts an evangelistic interpretation.

The Sunday school of the church will join in the evangelistic program of the week, holding separate departmental meetings each evening half an hour before the regular service. A large chorus choir and a junior choir will sing at each service under the direction of William A. Huey, musical director. George Lee Hamrick will preside at the organ.

'MOTOR' EDITOR GIVES HIGH PRAISE TO NRA

Enthusiastic praise for the NRA, but for which he said 75 per cent of the nation's automobile dealers would have been out of business, was given by James Dalton, editor of Motor Magazine, in a talk to the Atlanta Automobile Association at a luncheon Thursday.

NRA, Mr. Dalton said, has just begun to unlimber its heavy artillery against chiselers, and is doing good good for modern business as a dispenser of social justice.

"But for the NRA," he said, "the prosperous dealers would have retired and others would have been forced to the wall. NRA has established principles of equality between dealers and factory men. It doesn't guarantee prosperity, but it does guarantee a square deal."

Adding that the act has been declared constitutional by the supreme court, Mr. Dalton said that the only danger is that the authorities will not enforce it with enough sternness.

He said the act had resulted in guaranteeing collective bargaining rights between dealers and factory men, and had eliminated 75 per cent of the losses in the used car business. Dalton predicted an increase of as much as 20 to 25 per cent in retail automobile sales during the coming year.

John M. Smith, in introducing Mr. Dalton, paid tribute to his fearlessness of opinion, and to the excellent contacts of the magazine he edits. W. M. Boomershire, chairman of the association, presided at the meeting.

Five Perjury Warrants Issued in Reece Case

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 23.—(AP)—Repercussions in the form of perjury warrants came today in the wake of former Insurance Commissioner Joseph L. Reece's trial and conviction on a charge of stealing $100,000 of bonds.

Criminal Judge Charles Gilbert ordered bench warrants issued for Reece and his brother, Lem, and for three former employees of the ex-official who testified in corroboration of some of his statements. They were Miss Hilda McGray, who described herself as Reece's "confidential secretary in political matters," C. C. Corpening, an examiner, and Perry Debusk, associate deputy during the Reece regime.

MRS. JOHN A. SIBLEY TO BE BURIED TODAY

Rites for Victim of Auto Accident Will Be Conducted at Milledgeville.

Funeral services for Mrs. John A. Sibley, the wife of the widely known Atlanta attorney, who was killed Thursday afternoon when her automobile overturned near Jasper, Fla., will be held in Milledgeville, Ga., this afternoon.

The services will be conducted at 3 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church of Milledgeville by Dr. Wade H. Bogg, pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, Atlanta, of which

Mrs. Sibley was a devoted member. Fallbearers have been chosen from among her girlhood friends in Milledgeville, and will be L. H. Hall, A. C. McKinley, Walter Ritchie, Charles Whitefield, Marion Allen, Kyle T. Alfriend, Dr. H. D. Allen and Dr. E. W. Allen.

The fatal accident occurred while Mrs. Sibley, her husband's uncle, John A. Sibley, of Miami, and her 15-year-old son, James Malcolm Sibley, were on their way to Mr. Sibley's home. About six miles north of Jasper, Mr. Sibley, who was driving, endeavored to pass another automobile. His car ran off the pavement, twisted out of control in the soft dirt and turned over three times. Mrs. Sibley was almost instantly killed. Her uncle was not severely hurt and her son was only scratched and bruised.

The former Miss Nattie Whitaker Cone, of Milledgeville, Mrs. Sibley is survived by her husband and three children, two sisters and a brother. Her husband is a member of the law firm of Spalding, McDougald & Sibley.

TWO YOUTHS ARRESTED IN DECATUR ROBBERIES

Pair Held by DeKalb Police. Holdup, Burglaries Investigated Here.

Two youths suspected of a number of burglaries in Decatur were being held by DeKalb county police Friday while Atlanta police were investigating one holdup and several minor burglaries which occurred early Friday morning.

Held in the DeKalb jail are two white boys, about 16 or 17, who gave the names of Charles Campbell, of 1212 Stillwood drive, and James Johnson, of 77 DeFoor avenue. Chief of Police J. C. Rasbury said goods stolen from the residence of Paul M. Blanchet, of 1261 Stillwood drive, last Sunday night, were found in the possession of Campbell and Johnson.

In Atlanta Mrs. R. B. Daniel, of 553 Cooper street, reported that a burglar entered her house and while there left a purse which was stolen earlier in the night from the residence of J. W. Tallent, of 479 Formwalt street. Tallent said that he also lost the book was small were reported and were being investigated.

A negro CWA worker giving the name of Sidney Young, of 93 Fort street, said he was robbed of $27 Friday afternoon by two other negroes as he walked on the street near Fair street and Capitol avenue.

SWEET IS SPEAKER AT ATHENS FRIDAY

ATHENS, Ga., March 23.—The eighteenth amendment did more to break down observance of law than any other single thing, William E. Sweet, former governor of Colorado,

Cool, Rainy Weather Forecast for Today

A cool snap with occasional rains was forecast for today by the weather bureau Friday. A temperature range of 38 to 46 degrees was expected. Friday's range was 60 and 38 degrees. There was no rain.

Below zero conditions were reported in Michigan and New York, and snow was general from Montana to Washington.

speaking on the program and significance of the national recovery act said here tonight.

Mr. Sweet's attack on the prohibition amendment was applauded by an audience which attended the closing session of the Woman's Club Cooking school. Although he is personally a dry, the ex-governor said the eighteenth amendment is largely responsible for the undisciplined manner in which people have been living.

TODAY GOLDEN AGE IN LAW SAYS SMITH

Atlanta Lawyer Addresses Students at University of Georgia.

ATHENS, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Marion Smith, Atlanta lawyer, told law students of the University of Georgia that the period in which they are preparing for legal service, from the broad standpoint of legal thought and development, will go down in history as one of the golden ages.

"It is a period of great legal development and expansion," he said, "comparable to great periods of past history."

"The static condition of our law that existed in the last half of the nineteenth century began to be shaken up at the start of this century and courts have come to realize the necessity of remodeling and expanding the legal system so as to make it serve the needs and necessities of mankind."

"This wave has reached its climax at the present time when the whole country is consciously striving to reshape its economic and social structure to make it a better place in which to live."

Illustrating his address with the Louisiana state milling case in Georgia courts, Smith traced the recent progress of the growth of the law and the present tendency. He asked the question: Why is the structure standing every indication of prior material pointing to one result in this case, the court reached a different result?

Answering the question he said that the court felt that the rule it chose to adopt was the rule of greater social utility.

He cited a recent Minnesota mortgage case in the supreme court of the United States and the New York milk price case, where the majority of the supreme court had turned to the sociological method, he said, of legal thinking on doubtful questions.

TODAY'S YOUTH LUCKY, DEAN CHAPMAN AVERS

CARROLLTON, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Youngsters of today, born under a lucky star, students of West Georgia College here were told today by Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the University of Georgia's College of Agriculture.

Dean Chapman contrasted the present with the War Between the States reconstruction period. World War times and the years following, he said, and boys on farms in 1920 lived in a period of falling prices and those who graduated since 1920 have had difficulty in finding work, he said.

"But today we are emerging from the depression, we are standing on the verge of a new day when social and economic planning are to replace the 'rugged individualism' which has characterized recent decades," he said.

He cited the rural rehabilitation program of President Roosevelt in which more than $500,000,000 will be spent this year, the object of which he said was to "re-make rural America."

He said the program was a permanent one and that "farming will not only be safe for those engaged in it but it will also appeal to ambitious men and women wishing to enter it."

MERCER UNIVERSITY SUPERLATIVES NAMED

MACON, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Miss Viola Napier, daughter of the city clerk here, was voted the most attractive co-ed at Mercer University in a poll conducted by the Chastity, college newspaper, it was announced today. James McCook, oldest of Macon, was voted the handsomest man in the list of superlatives.

Among many others, Bowie Grey, of Perry, was named the best athlete, in the students' opinions, and Howard Overby, of Gainesville, Ga., was named the most popular male and Miss Adrian Croom, of Wrightsville, N. C., the most popular co-ed.

GEORGIA TO CONDUCT MANY TESTS FOR TVA

EXPERIMENT, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Chancellor Philip Weltner, of the University System of Georgia, has entered into a cooperative agreement with the Tennessee Valley Authority whereby a large number of cotton fertilizer experiments will be conducted in this state this season by the Georgia experiment station and cooperating farmers. Director H. P. Stuckey announced here today.

The TVA is supplying various sources of phosphate which will likely be manufactured at Muscle Shoals. The field work is being planned and supervised by R. P. Bledsoe and R. G. Pringle, of the Georgia Experiment station.

DR. JOSEPH S. STEWART STRICKEN AT ATHENS

ATHENS, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Dr. Joseph S. Rome Industry Pay Rolls 1,244 Larger Than Normal

By WILL A. PATTON.
ROME, Ga., March 23.—(P)—With 1,244 more persons employed in Rome industries than in normal times, which is approximately 3,000 more than the low of the depression, bank deposits increased more than 30 per cent, an increased real estate market, retail merchants reporting an increase of 50 per cent in trade with 900 less families on the relief rolls than a year ago and with the farmers in the best shape of their lives, Rome and Floyd county have entered the second year of the new deal filled with enthusiasm and optimism.

The city of Rome completed its fiscal year with a large balance in the bank and with not one cent in unpaid bills. The only indebtedness the city faces at the interest on the same date in 1933 and $188,338.00 on the same date in 1932.

It is impossible to buy a city of Rome or county of Floyd county bond on the market to yield more than $2.75. The latest quotations given local banks, which have attempted to buy them for investment, was $115.

In making a survey of the industries of Floyd county the following were checked: Five stove foundries, three furniture and machine shops, three planing mills and lumber, one paper box factory, one manufacturer of trucks and wheelbarrows, one rayon mill and five textile mills.

The following table shows the normal and present number of employed in these industries:

Industry	Normal Employed
Stove manufacturers	472
Foundries, machine	32
Textile manufacturers	3,652
Hosiery mills	484
Casket factories	32
Paper factories	23
Lumber mills	98
Rayon mills	2,050
Miscellaneous	304
Totals	7,398

Rome banks report an increase of deposits over 30 per cent a year ago with practically no hoarding in the county. Both banks report that Floyd county farmers have met their obligations better than any other county in the state.

There is little building reported but signs of it are picking up too are noted. The quiet in building is attributed to the greatly increased price in lumber which is being enforced by the Southern Pine Lumber Association, code members.

W. R. H. S. PROJECT TAXED FOR 10 YEARS

Ruling Made on Federal Contractors' Gasoline Tax at Benning.

A government contract does not make the contractor a federal agency and therefore he remains subject to the state taxes incurred in the work. Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans ruled Friday.

He issued the opinion in answer to a query from Columbus where the contractors on government work at Fort Benning had sought to avoid payment of the tax on gasoline for trucks used exclusively on the army reservation.

William A. Leonard, attorney for the contractors, asked for the opinion, pointing out that the trucks were not used on any state roads and also setting up the claim that the contract made his clients federal agencies.

The attorney-general cited a supreme court opinion holding the contractor on a government lease job subject to Louisiana's state gasoline tax on the ground that any burden imposed on the government by the levy would be "consequential and remote."

He also held that the use of the machines exclusively on government property did not operate as a cause for exemption, pointing out that gasoline used in stationary engines, tractors, and other machines which do not use Georgia roads, is taxed.

MID-GEORGIA EXHIBIT IN MACON ENDS TODAY

MACON, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Its success already a matter of official history, the Middle Georgia Business Recovery Exposition—the first of a promised series of annual business exhibitions—closed today night at the Macon auditorium.

To attract the out-of-town Saturday throngs, the doors will be opened at 10 o'clock and the exhibition will continue until 10 o'clock. The program will end with a series of civic club programs as varied as the 50 displays.

Tonight the musical fare was under the banner of the Exchange Club and included popular music by a local orchestra, dances and vocal solos.

The size of the crowd again—about 4,000—caused officials to marvel at the success of the new venture and reiterate assurances of its continuance next spring. The show is sponsored by the Macon Chamber of Commerce.

BLUE RIDGE STRANGER DIES IN LAKE TOCCOA

Visitor, Claiming Stock Losses, Wins Undertaker's Friendship Before Suicide.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., March 23.—(P)—The body of a man who had given his name as Horace Gray, of St. Louis, and said he had lost $150,000 in the stock market was recovered from Lake Toccoa late yesterday. The coroner said he had met death by drowning.

The stranger came to this section three weeks ago and told several residents he was a retired railroad man from St. Louis. He had spent his time fishing at Lake Toccoa and had made friends with Will Allen, the local undertaker, who is also fond of fishing.

Tuesday night the man told Allen he was going on a fishing trip at a certain spot and would fish all night. Yesterday morning a note was found in his rooming house leaving his personal possessions and $3 in cash to the undertaker and asking the undertaker to bury him.

A search was instituted and the body was recovered from Lake Toccoa yesterday at the place where the man had said he intended going fishing. His spectacles and hat were found nearby with the name cut out of the hatband.

Allen said that the man had told him his wife and a daughter had died some time ago and that he had no other relatives.

The personal possessions included several pieces of jewelry and were valued at about $200.

NAVAL STORES OUTPUT BEEF CATTLE RAISERS FOR SEASON ALLOTTED TO CONVEY IN ALBANY

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 23.—Under the allotment made by the naval stores control committee for the production of gum, turpentine and rosin for the season running from April 1 to December 31, 1934, the amount to be licensed is 10,050,000 gallons of spirits and 571,500,000 pounds of rosin.

Producers will be granted processing license to sell a total as shown in these figures, and will keep production within the limits set by the government through the NRA code. The producers will be allotted their proportion of the output, based on an estimate of previous production over a period of years, and represents a flat reduction of 10 per cent on the basic record.

Dean Chapman Named Special Game Warden

ATHENS, Ga., March 23.—(P)—The dean of the College of Agriculture has been commissioned a special game warden for the state at large.

Zack D. Cravey, game and fish commissioner, tendered the commission to Dean Paul W. Chapman for his interest in the work of the department of game and fish.

CCC CAMP RETENTION ASKED FOR PARK PLAN

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 23.—Assistance of Georgia's senators in Washington and of Congressman B. T. Castles in the House, has been sought to keep the CCC camp at Warm Springs until something definite develops on the proposal to make Pine Mountain a national park. It was announced today by Walter P. Pike, secretary of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

A telegram was sent to Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell, and Congressman Castles today by Mr. Pike, who pointed out that every section of Georgia is supporting the movement to make Pine Mountain a national park, including Warm Springs, a national park.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES INCREASE IN MACON

MACON, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Building activities in Macon are continuing to grow steadily in private industry, a survey of city books revealed today.

Five building plans aggregating $22,218 in value either are under construction or have been finished recently. These include two metal warehouses, each costing $8,500.

Lawrenceville Road Scene of Fatal Crash

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., March 23.—Willie Turner, 52, employed by the Stone Mountain Granite company, was instantly killed on the Lawrenceville-Decatur highway five miles west of here when the truck he was driving collided with a bread wagon driven by Payne Moore. The accident occurred early Friday night.

Robert Smith and Clarence McCarty, also on the truck with Turner, were injured though both are expected to recover. Joe Bailey, riding on the bread truck, was unhurt. The injured were brought to Lawrenceville by J. J. Raggett, who passed the scene of the collision just after it occurred. They were treated by Dr. W. T. Ezard.

Turner is survived by his wife and four children and lived at Stone Mountain.

$1,050 Theft Charged To Palmistry Group

ELBERTON, Ga., March 23.—Late Thursday afternoon a woman known here as Madame Joan, palmist, two men, two children and a negro nurse left Elberton and are said to have taken with them $1,050 of Mrs. D. M. Spence's money, all she had left from the life insurance left by her late husband. The palmist and her assistants offered to sell Mrs. Spence's house for a high price upon payment to them of a thousand dollar fee. They required the fee in advance.

Within a couple of hours Sheriff S. B. Seymour and Chief of Police Irvin had broadcast a description of the party who left here in a tan sedan with a radio on the rear seat, and asked for their arrest.

The party is said to have come here from Alabama.

PLANTATION SONGS FESTIVAL TUESDAY

One Hundred Negroes To Sing Real Folk Music of Race at Sea Island.

SEA ISLAND, Ga., March 23.—One hundred spiritual singers will take part in the third annual singing festival Tuesday night, the 27th, at the Sea Island casino, and the occasion promises to be the most outstanding presentation of spirituals and songs of the plantation era ever given on the coast. The program will be presented by members of the Spiritual Singing Society of Coastal Georgia, organized and sponsored by Mrs. Maxfield Parrish. Six groups of singers from Glynn, McIntosh and Camden counties will compete for silver trophies in several classes of songs including shouts and spirituals, and 25 hundred voices will be heard in several numbers.

Mrs. Henry Adams, of Atlanta; Dr. H. B. Wilmer, member of the Orpheus choir, Germantown, Pa., and Franklin Harris, head of the music department of Miami University, will come to Sea Island to serve as judges in the event. Augmenting the program of spirituals and shouts will be several features, one of which will be "Buzards in the Pine," typical of the leisure hours on the plantations and closely related to the African play songs. A series of work songs and chants will also be given.

Several hundred people are expected to attend the festival and a number coming from the east purposely to hear the spirituals of the coast which have attracted such wide-spread attention. The genuine Afro-American folk songs are sung on the Georgia coast in their purest form, uncorrupted by outside influences and the modern trend in spiritual singing which is characterized more by American or west influence than the African bias. The true plantation spirituals, as sung on the coast reveal in about equal measure the reflection of primitive life in Africa and the influence of the American hymn book.

TALMADGE TO VISIT COLUMBUS APRIL 5

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 23.—(P)—Governor Talmadge today advised County Commissioner Frank D. Foley he would pay his first official visit to Columbus on April 5.

Local officials expected he would be accompanied by members of the highway board for an inspection of a proposed new road to Fort Benning and a Warm Springs road paving project.

They NEVER HEAR Your HORN!

Children should never use the streets or roads for a play yard, but—Children are only children and they often forget. Some are bold—some daring, while others only careless and thoughtless.

A campaign of education is now under way among all school children to impress upon them the necessity of staying off the streets and highways, but in spite of this some of them will continue to take chances.

At any time a child may dart in front of your car—several may loiter in crossing the street. They are wrong but that does not alter the fact that your car will most likely destroy a child's life IF YOU ARE NOT ON GUARD.

When children are in the path of your car, forget your horn—USE YOUR BRAKES! They seldom hear your horn but if they do they are apt to be startled and confused; they may dart out of your way—and right back again—when it is too late for you to stop.

ALWAYS SLOW DOWN when nearing a group of children in the street. Don't be afraid to lose a minute, shift into low gear if necessary—BUT HAVE YOUR CAR UNDER PERFECT CONTROL UNTIL YOU'VE PASSED THEM!

Remember—they are only children—tiny bodies—big souls. Protect them—don't KILL them!

Atlanta leads every city of its size in the United States in automotive accidents and deaths on its public streets and highways. Will you co-operate in wiping out this black record?

Jones Has More Putter Trouble and Ties for 28th Place

BREAK O' DAY!

By Ralph McCall

Jones Says He Reached Depths When He Missed One-Footer

AUGUSTA NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—We were gathered in the locker room.

Bobby Jones had just finished a cup of hot coffee. It had been cold all day to the great embarrassment of the Augustans. The yarns started coming one by one.

The best one was credited to Jess Guilford, the one-time Boston siege gun.

Guilford was riding from Boston to a nearby city with a friend. He is noted for his few words.

They passed a cemetery. Guilford looked at it and said: "There is where you are one down for keeps."

Bobby chuckled. "I felt that way about my game today," he said.

"I was worse today than yesterday. I think I reached the depths when I missed that one-footer on No. 16."

"The law of averages is sure to work in your favor tomorrow, suggested a friend. "You missed a dozen putts by a couple of inches."

"Well," said Bobby, "I hope the law of averages does step in. There is just one comfort. I can't get any worse."

Bobby is still the idol. The galleries trample after him, pulling for him, groaning with his misses and cheering his good shots. A great round Saturday would jam the course Sunday.

THE SPIRITUAL QUALITY.

Horton Smith was leaning nonchalantly against the hotel desk, his face wore the look which you might expect on the face of a fellow who has shot himself out in front in a $5,000 open tournament.

"Horton," I asked, "explain this inexplicable thing of losing one's golfing touch. Why has Jones apparently lost that art which made him champion in so many tournaments?"

"Well," he said, "you don't ask easy questions. But my idea of it is something like this. A fellow loses the vital part of his game without realizing it. It is a sort of spiritual quality which one's game develops in competition."

"Jones has been playing friendly rounds for four years. He has been going along playing easily and knowing that nothing mattered. If he missed a shot he didn't worry about it. He was just playing along. There was no iron in his game. Because there didn't have to be any."

"The reason I say it is a sort of spiritual quality is because it becomes a sort of mental code to adhere to."

"It builds up something in the subconscious mind. It is something that can be called on in an emergency. You read about competitive athletes calling on some hidden wells of strength. I think it is that iron in the mind which only continued competition builds up," he said.

"Now Jones hasn't had a match that required any of this iron will. He played well enough in those friendly rounds. But suddenly he comes back to competition. He finds that the game that matters is different from the one which doesn't."

"I think Bobby Jones is showing some fine courage. The average man, when he found his game slipping away, would be completely routed. I have certainly admired the fight he has made to stick in there. I don't know of anyone else who would have been routed."

And I nodded an acquiescent head. He has, and is, fighting grimly.

AN ESTIMATE OF JONES' SWING.

Jones' swing has always been accepted as the one which approaches nearest to perfection.

I asked Horton Smith about that.

"His swing," said Smith, "is the best one golf has seen because it is always the same. The average golfer thinks about the type shot he has to make. He may change his swing a bit."

"But Jones' swing is always the same. It is as true as if it were mechanically made. And that is why it is accepted as the model for teaching golf swings."

I asked Smith also if it were not true that when Jones came in Thursday with a 76 that it lifted all the pressure on the field and cut quite a few strokes from the play of all who followed.

"Undoubtedly," he grinned. "That 76 made it easy for everyone. They all just let down their hair and shot golf. If he had shot a 69 or a 68 Friday the pressure would have been on again. But his 74 will not do it."

There is quite a lot to the gentle art of psychology. I wonder what we did about it before we learned it existed?

CARS FROM THIRTY STATES.

There is almost a constant stream of cars coming into the driveway to the National Golf Club. The guards at the gate have kept a check.

At 3 o'clock today cars from 30 of the 48 states in America and four from Canada had entered the drive.

California, Nebraska, Vermont were among the 30 states represented by the license tags.

A gentleman has just informed me that there was one in later this afternoon from Cuba with the Chilean legation tag on it.

Two foreign cars and 30 American states represented. Which would seem to indicate that there is more than a mild interest in the tournament.

It is easily the greatest golf tournament the south has ever had and one which ranks in interest with the National Open and Amateur.

It has not yet been announced, but it is sure to be an annual event.

And the National Open is also coming to the Augusta National. Not more than two or three years hence.

GOLDEN MILLER WINS BIG 'CHASE' IN RECORD TIME

Favorite Finishes Event in Nine Minutes and Twenty Seconds.

AIN'TREE, England, March 23.—(AP)—While a quarter of a million persons watched and the rest of the world listened, Dorothy Page's big English jumper, Golden Miller, favorite at odds of 19 to 2, today raced to a record-breaking triumph in the ninety-sixth running of the blue ribbon classic of steeplechasing, the Grand National.

Well up with the leaders throughout the race, Golden Miller came with a rush to finish the four miles, 856 yards of turf, plowed land and obstacles in 9 minutes 20.4 seconds, the fastest in the more than century-long history of the race.

Delaneige, owned by the American J. B. Snow, was second to the English-owned horse, two lengths back and about an equal distance from the rear came John Hay (Jack) Whitney's Thomond II. Ten of the 30 starters finished.

Golden Miller's time displaced the mark of 9:28 set by Mrs. P. Ambrose Clark's Kelsoboro Jack in winning last year.

SMALL FIELD.

Conditions were almost ideal for the race as the 30 picked jumpers, one of the smallest fields in years, paraded past the grandstand and up to the starting line.

The turf was firm and springy from a day of rain, and clouds obscured the sun. Visibility was good for jockeys and onlookers alike.

Sixteen minutes were required to line the field up and then at 3:16 p.m. (10:15 a.m., eastern standard time), the signal was given and from 250,000 throats the cry went up: "They're off."

They thundered down past the grandstand well bunched and headed for the first jump with each jockey attempting only to keep his horse in hand and pray for the best.

Up they rose, row on row, and over. As the field swept on the cry came "Sorley Boy is down." So was Southern Hero and two others.

The rest were going beautifully, however, up and over the obstacles without a break in the ranks.

GOLDEN MILLER.

As they reached the dreaded Becher's brook Southern Hero, a rank outsider, was leading with Delaneige, Thomond II and Whitney's other off, Lone Eagle, in close pursuit. Off to one side and going easily was Golden Miller, carrying his 170 pounds as though it was a feather.

As they again came around past the grandstand on the first circuit of the course Greengalch, the big Irish jumper which won the 1929 race, had moved up in front with Delaneige still holding on in second place and W. Parsonage's Forbra, long-shot winner in 1932, third.

Then as the horses and jockeys tired the real test began. Delaneige tired to the front for a moment, then Thomond II, and then Delaneige again.

"Here comes Golden Miller," called a shrill voice, and there he came. Fencing beautifully Miss Page's big horse gained with every stride, caught Delaneige at the last jump, 600 yards from the finish and steadily pulled away from the American horse in the run to the judges to finish well in hand, his Canadian jockey, A. G. Wilson, looking back as they flashed past the finish line.

FORBRA FOURTH.

Forbra, a tired but gallant figure, finished fourth, five lengths behind Thomond II, who was followed by the other finishers: Uncle Batt, Blue Peter III, Greengalch, Apostasy, Annandale and Remus.

The other 20 starters either fell or were pulled up when they saw they had no chance to finish in the money.

Of the five American horses starting only Thomond and Delaneige were among the 10 finishers, and only Sorley Boy fell. Prince Cherry, M. D. Blair's aged jumper, was pulled up early while Lone Eagle faltered at Becher's brook the second time around and his jockey reined him in as the field swept past.

It was the most truly run race in years and no horse or jockey was seriously hurt in the spills, none of which were bad.

THE CARDS.

TEN.—Bobby Jones was again inside Runyan with his approach, on the 400-yard tenth, but two putts from 20 feet and Paul also got down for his par four with two putts from 30 feet.

ELEVENTH HOLE.—They had a chance of par 5 on the 225-yard 11th. Runyan cut down Jones for a change but both failed to get home with their long second, Paul's ball trickling into a trap, and Bob being 20 yards short.

On the 11th hole, the two men were early in the finishing season this year. Bussey Whitworth, bank employee here, tells this one:

He was paddling about the Chattahoochee river late yesterday in a boat close to shore.

Whitworth said something that looked to him like a panther suddenly sprang out of the water. He kicked at it and the thing landed flopping in his boat.

It was a 6-3-4 pound bass.

Here's Detail Of Bob Jones' Second Round

Hole-by-hole description of Bobby Jones' play in the second round of Augusta open:

FIRST HOLE.—Jones was home in two good shots on the first hole and got his par 4, while Runyan took 3 to get down from the edge of the green and carded a 5.

SECOND HOLE.—Jones, after outplaying his rival to the 410-yard second, took 3 putts from 35 feet and posted a 5 while Paul got his par 4.

THIRD HOLE.—Jones got his par 3 on the short third, where Runyan was trapped and lost a stroke.

FOURTH HOLE.—Bob was on the edge of the 480-yard fourth with two good wallops and got down his second putt, a 6-footer, for a birdie 4. Runyan nearly holed out from 60 feet and also got his birdie.

FIFTH HOLE.—Jones skyrocketed to a damaging 6 on the 425-yard fifth hole. After being short with his second, the Georgian completely missed his chip, the ball rolling only 15 feet. His next was 8 feet from the cup and the putt hung on the lip. Runyan also was short with his approach but chipped close enough to get his par 4.

SIXTH HOLE.—Jones rallied with another birdie on the 485-yard sixth, reaching a great iron from a sloping lie, and then taking 2 putts from 18 feet. Runyan not only duplicated the birdie but his putt from 20 feet, for an eagle, hit the cup.

SEVENTH HOLE.—Jones and Runyan both got par 3s handily on the short seventh, each landing within 20 feet of the cup with niblick shots.

EIGHTH HOLE.—Runyan got his third birdie in five holes when he played a great iron from a sloping lie, and then took 2 putts from 18 feet. Jones was inside but missed his putt from 7 feet and carded a 4.

NINTH HOLE.—Jones missed his 20-foot putt by an inch on the ninth, carded a four and totaled 37 to the turn. Runyan was one under-par margin on the Georgian.

TENTH HOLE.—Jones was again inside Runyan with his approach, on the 400-yard tenth, but two putts from 20 feet and Paul also got down for his par four with two putts from 30 feet.

ELEVENTH HOLE.—They had a chance of par 5 on the 225-yard 11th. Runyan cut down Jones for a change but both failed to get home with their long second, Paul's ball trickling into a trap, and Bob being 20 yards short.

PROS PRIMED FOR THE 'KILL' IN INVITATION

Bobby Fails Lamentably on Last Five Holes of Second Round.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—Galloping toward their biggest golfing "kill" since they last routed Bob Jones in the 1927 open championship at Oakmont, the American professional brigade today left the great Georgian struggling further in the race, still shackled by putting handicaps, as the field reached the halfway stage of the $5,000 Masters' invitation tournament today over the cold, wind-swept Augusta National links.

Putting more like an old man with the palsy than the world champion who retired less than four years ago, Jones rallied only to the extent of clipping two strokes off his first day's score and posting a 74 alongside his previous 76 for a 36-hole total of 150.

The great Georgian succeeded in advancing from a tie for 38th place to a tie for 28th but where he was only six strokes off the pace yesterday he was eight strokes behind tonight as the brilliant Horton Smith, Chicago professional, rode out alone in front of the pack with scores of 70-72-142—two under par.

BLOWS CHANCES.

Failing lamentably and to the intense disappointment of a gallery of more than 500 fans on the last five holes, Jones blew his chances of gaining on the leaders by three-putting two successive greens, the 14th and 15th, and then capping the climax by missing a simple putt of 18 inches on the 16th green. His hands seemed to shake and his control was so uncertain that he finally stopped and remarked to a friend: "It's got so, it's funny now."

Only by the most spectacular kind of comeback now over the closing two days of play can Jones hope to come even close to finishing inside the first 12—the money list—and giving his old rivals a battle down the stretch. After today's faulty exhibition, where his short-range game completely offset his brilliant shotmaking through the fairways, not even the most ardent Jones fans entertained confidence in the ability of their former idol to stage much of a rally.

The law of averages, it would seem, should favor him tomorrow and Sunday but so far he has played exactly like a perfect host, happy to see his old friends having a good time but quite unequal to the personal job of keeping pace with them after a lapse of four seasons.

SCORING THRILLS.

While Bob all but faded out of the picture, the gallery was entertained with a succession of scoring thrills, including a sensational 69 by the home club pro, Ed Dudley, for a new competitive course record, and the most exciting all golf shot—a hole-in-one by Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian Scot, who held the United States amateur championship two years ago.

Somerville consoled himself for an otherwise weird round, a 78 which left him in the rear with 160 by plunking a masher niblick shot to the 145-yard 16th green, where the ball hopped into the cup on the first bounce. It was the first "ace" to be scored on the Augusta National layout.

Dudley started off by three-putting the first hole but quickly got the ball in the hole on the 14th, inclusive, a stretch of nine holes, he had only one long putt, a 32-foot putt on the 6th, and on the other holes he struck iron shots so "stiff" to the pin that the birdies were easy and he chipped in from 15 feet off the 8th green. He would have had a 68 but for three putts on the 14th.

FIELD BUNCHED.—The field was so closely bunched that no less than 20 professionals and one "businessman" businessmen's Denson, of Chicago, were within five shots of each, making it a wide-open fight for the next two days. Two of today's best rallies were put on by the veteran MacDonald Smith, of Nashville, and Ralph Stonehouse, young Indianapolis pro, each with a 70 that gave them totals of 144 and a tie in fourth place with Jimmie Hines of Timber Point, N. Y. Hines reversed the process by taking a 74 to his first day's 70.

Playing with Jones, Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., again shot the Georgian and scored a sub par 71 for the 36-hole aggregate of 145. In this bracket, Runyan was tied for 14th with Ed Dudley, Al Espinosa and Leo Diegel, all among the professional favorites.

Jones started his second round after fully an hour's workout on the practice green, where he raised the hopes of his friends by holing a flock of putts from every angle. His own joking fear that he might leave his rough tee boxes was only too quickly realized. Bob three-putted the second hole and offset birdies on the two long holes by carding a six on the par four fifth. Just off the edge of his green Jones completely missed a chip shot, the ball rolling only three feet, and he took three more strokes to hole out.

After the Georgian pulled his "flub-shot," a spectator wise-cracked "good shot, Bob," whereupon Jones turned with a dry smile to a friend and remarked "I could shoot a man for that, that's the way I feel now."

PILLS EVEN.

Out in 37 to Runyan's 33, Jones pulled even with old man par and his rival by sinking his only putt of the round, a 10-footer for a deuce on the 19-yard 13th. At this point he had a good chance to make a garish finish that would give the professionals something to worry about but his putting touch deserted him completely on the next three holes.

From 15 feet off the 14th, he took three to get down, missing a four-footer finally as he stabbed jerkily at the ball. On the short 15th, Bob missed the hole by six feet with his first putt and missed again. Then after a good try for the cup on the 16th, with the ball only 18 inches from the hole, he jabbed and missed once more. Para on the last two holes didn't help much after that exhibition.

All told, Jones took 38 putts in one of the worst performances he has ever given on the greens. Under the circumstances it was a wonder he scored as well as he did, although there were no flaws in either his wood or long iron play. Runyan had only 33 putts. In two days Runyan had had 9 fewer putts than Jones but gained a lead of only 5 shots, a comparison.

BOBBY'S PATH.

These gentlemen were only a few of the men who stood in Bobby's path, for strung out through the 14th, 15th, 16th and 18th, were 17 others including such formidable sharpshooters as Denny Shute, British open champion; Johnny Golden, Walter Hagen, who finished second today; Willie MacFarlane and Bobby Cruikshank.

Jones has come from as far behind as this before, but he was playing golf there. And he isn't now. He has missed absolutely no putting. In getting his 74 today he had 38 putts. Not once, but half a dozen times, he missed little fellows not much longer than your arm. On the 16th green he laid his chip shot less than a foot from the cup, but with a birdie his for the asking, he missed the putt.

After starting with a par 4 on the 1st hole, Bobby went one over on the 2d when he heeded three putts. His putter obeyed him for one of the few times since the tournament started.

It's All Strange to Her

Mrs. Bobby Jones seems a bit puzzled as she watches her husband battling his way around in the second round of the Augusta National open Friday afternoon. She has watched Bobby in many rounds of competition but never has she seen him as he was Thursday and Friday. The king of the golfers was sadly lacking his famous "Jones Magic" and was struggling to stay within striking distance. In the lower picture, Walter Hagen, the old master himself, is shown making a shot in Friday's play. He will pair with Jones today in the third round. Associated Press photos.

Play of Cracker Infield Features Workout at Macon Camp

BYRNE JAMES IS IMPRESSIVE; TAYLOR STARS

Buster Chatham Rounds Out Atlanta Double-Play Combination.

By Jimmy Jones.

MACON, Ga., March 23.—Advance stories to the effect that the Cracker infield would make the others in the league sit up and take notice appeared already substantiated today as Byrne James, the swift Texan, teamed up with Wee Buster Chatham and big Harry Taylor on the double play combination.

James, the ex-Giant, made his first appearance at second base in Spencer Abbott's daily infield drill and had the gallery agog with his movements around the bag. Agile fielder, possessed of a fine throwing arm, James looks like a perfect fit. And he and Chatham worked together gracefully, although it was their first day along-side each other.

James is a very fast man and the beautiful feature about him is that he is a turn-around or switch hitter, and can hit both right and left-handed pitching almost equally well. Today he turned around and hit effectively from both sides of the plate. James is obviously a great hustler and Spencer Abbott says there is not a better bunter in the minors than James. He plans to hit him second in the batting order.

TAYLOR IMPRESSIVE. Harry Taylor, the rangy first sacker, seems to be everything that was said of him and then some. When it comes to fielding his position, he is coming up with everything, although this was just his second day out and he has an accurate throw to all bases. The fact that he is tall and shifts well makes him a fine target for the throwers.

Right now, Charley Sheerin, the husky youngster from Fordham University is showing rapid improvement at third base and if Mr. Wilfred E. (Fritz) Knothe doesn't hurry up and show himself, young Mr. Sheerin may be playing his position for him when the season opens. Abbott likes Sheerin's big hands and the fine pegging arm that he has shown at third. The kid had never played any pro-

Bob Jones Feared To Face His Putts, He Tells Grant Rice

He Is Unable To Explain Collapse of His Short Game; Rice Would Pick Mac Smith As Winner at Augusta.

By Grantland Rice.

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) AUGUSTA, Ga., March 24.—The miracle man of golf now faces the great miracle of his career. Bobby Jones starts his two last rounds of the Masters' invitation tournament in a tie for 28th place, eight strokes back of the fastest field that the ancient game has seen in many a year—eight strokes back of at least 20 brilliant stars who have fought their way into the leading pack.

What has happened to the star who cleaned up four years ago? I wonder if you ever suddenly discovered that your best friend had turned into a hooded cobra or a green mamba, emitting poison at every thrust? This happened to Bobby Jones.

Calamity Jane, II, the tried and true putter, suddenly turns into a broomstick. Jones played from the tee and up to the greens like the Jones of old. His driving was long and straight. His brassies, his spoons and his long irons carried all the art that made him famous around the world. But when it came to the dull detail of tapping the ball into the cup, he was just an average Sunday morning golfer, trying desperately to break 95.

In his second round Jones had a 74 that with any sort of putting might have been a 69 or a 67. He missed eight putts under seven feet. He missed two putts of eighteen and sixteen inches. He almost missed three others around two feet.

SCARED BY A PUTT. "The minute I reached the green," Bobby said, "I had the jitters, blind staggers and sleeping sickness. I was honestly afraid to walk up to a two-foot putt. I had the feeling that I had to lay every long shot, every pitch shot and every chip shot dead to get my par. It is something I can't explain, for I was never hitting the ball better up to the green. For two days I have felt that I couldn't possibly hole a three-foot putt, and I have missed at least five of this length."

The answer, of course, is nerves—nerves plus the mental attitude that settles in the brain and directs our destinies, for good or evil. It is my opinion that, after a four-year rest from steady play, Bobby Jones is badly over-golfed. He has known ten days of acting as the old-

RYAN'S HIT WINS FOR GIANTS, 4-3, IN 13 INNINGS

Danning's Double Starts Winning Rally in Late Stages of Game.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The world champion New York Giants nosed out the St. Louis Browns today, 4 to 3, in a 13-inning game that appeared to be one of those interminable affairs until Harry Danning cracked out a double and scored on an infield smash by Blondy Ryan to end the marathon.

St. Louis (A) . . . 100 002 000 000 0-3 12 2 New York (N) . . . 000 010 101 000 1-4 11 1 Coffman, McAfee, Knott and Henrich, Grube, Fitzsimmons, Clark, Salstrom, Castleman and Richards, Healy, Danning.

DOGGERS WIN. WINTER PARK, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—Van Mungo, the Dodgers' pitching ace, was knicked for four hits and three runs by the Montreal Royals today, 3 to 2, in a 10-inning game.

Montreal (M) . . . 000 102 000 0-5 12 2 New York (N) . . . 000 010 101 000 1-4 11 1 Coffman, McAfee, Knott and Henrich, Grube, Fitzsimmons, Clark, Salstrom, Castleman and Richards, Healy, Danning.

PIRATES BEAT CUBS. LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(AP)—In a wild game marked by six home runs Pittsburgh evened its spring training exhibition series with the Chicago Cubs today with a 14-to-8 victory.

Pittsburgh (P) . . . 211 013 000—8 12 3 Chicago (C) . . . 170 005 105—14 15 2 Conrad, L. Nelson, Root and Phelps, Goebel, Johnson, Harris and Veltman, Flinn.

REDS WIN. TAMPA, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds were caught napping by the whiskered boys of the House of David and barely succeeded in nosing them out, 8 to 7, in an exhibition game today.

House of David . . . 000 302 011—12 12 2 Cincinnati (C) . . . 003 119 021—14 15 2 Janesko and Haake; Hollingsworth, Johnson, Lindsay and O'Farrell.

YANK PLANS. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—While the New York Yankees took the day off so far as exhibition games were concerned today, Joe McCarthy announced he had decided upon a batting order for the opening of the season.

Don Heffner, flashy second baseman, has been the leadoff man so far this spring, and McCarthy plans to put the veteran, Earle Combs, there with Heffner dropping to seventh position. In-between will be Rolfe, Ruth, Gehrig, Chapman, Langer, Heffner and Dickey.

BRAVES BEAT 'A'S.' ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx, the American league's premier slugger, and Wally Berger made their first homers of 1934 today while the Boston Braves were defeating the Philadelphia Athletics, 14-10, in the first of their two-game spring series.

Philadelphia (A) . . . 010 120 212—10 13 3 Boston (B) . . . 022 023 505—14 16 1 Malaffey, Calk, Benton and Berry; Mangum, Barrett and Hogan, Spohrer.

RED SOX ROMP. SARASOTA, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—Given plenty of hitting, the Boston Red Sox today ran up a 14-9 victory over the Newark International league club with little difficulty.

Newark (N) . . . 000 015 001—9 11 1 Boston (A) . . . 500 023 045—14 12 5 Larocque, Chandler and Glenn, Goldy, H. Johnson, McCluskey, Hockett and Binkie, Connolly.

TIGER VICIOUS. LAKELAND, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers take the field against the St. Louis Cardinals here tomorrow afternoon in the first exhibition game, and Manager Cochrane is hoping to see an improvement in pitching and batting.

In the two league exhibitions to date, the infield, with the exception of Rogell, has failed to hold up its end of the batting attack. Out of seven hits by the infielders in two games, Rogell got four of them, including a homer and a triple.

COUPLES BOWL IN FIRST MEET. Atlantans are in for a bowling treat at Blick's bowling center tonight when the first annual Husband and Wife duck pin tournament gets under way at 8 o'clock.

The tournament has been advertised for several weeks and many couples have put their entries in to take part in the meet, and others who have failed to do so may enter at any time prior to the starting time.

Five games will be bowled, and no entry fee is charged, the bowlers pay only the cost of the games. Handicaps apply to all couples participating.

The John S. Blick trophy, one of the largest to be awarded for a sports event of any kind, is on display at the bowling alley.

Among those whose entries have been filed are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradley, of Cartersville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. 1841 Beaupre, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Biggers, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Pirkle, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tidwell, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Warrington, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Binkie, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Blick, Dr. and Mrs. T. P. Talley, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Barrier, Mr. and Mrs. Lindy James, Mr. and Mrs. Langdon, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Munday, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Barze, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. L. Perryman, Mr. and Mrs. T. Althausen, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tiedeman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McKay, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Peach, Mr. and Mrs. John Townley, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cantwell and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Plant.

Another novel event that has not been staged heretofore at the bowling alleys, and will experience the initial trout this afternoon and evening, is a left-hand bowling sweetstakes, to be bowled at either 3 or 8 o'clock this afternoon and evening.

Any bowler who uses the unorthodox delivery may enter. The entry fee is $1 and it includes the cost of the five games to be bowled.

C. E. Harris, O. J. Metcalf, George Harris, Ed Gladner, R. Petre, Prater Dillin, W. J. Lynch, Bill Munday, L. Dondeler and Ray Ingleit are some of the porters who will try for the capital award.

Out in Front

Charley Yates, former Georgia amateur champion, has a three-stroke lead on the amateur field in the Augusta open. Yates added a 72 yesterday to a first round 76 and came to the halfway mark with a score of 148. He has two strokes on Bobby Jones. Yates was two under par on the first nine but failed to keep up this pace.

KLEIN EXPECTED TO 'MAKE' CUB POWER ATTACK

Addition of Slugger Expected To Make Cubs Pennant Contender.

By Brian Bell.

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(AP)—Chicago's Cubs have added the biggest gun in the National league to their attacking forces for the 1934 campaign and everybody from the rawest recruit to Manager Charlie Grimm believes Charles Herbert (Chuck) Klein will be just what the doctor ordered for the Wrigley entry.

Klein and his batting potency will add many runs to the Chicago totals and his mates think these will be enough to insure a World Series appearance next autumn.

Klein, of course, will patrol an outpost from April on but his associates in the outfield have not yet been nominated. The club has four other outfielders, Kiki Cuyler, Riggs Stephenson, Babe Herman and George Tucker Stainback. Several strong combinations are possible.

Runyan Praises Jones After Two Days' Play

Just Watch Him Play Half Dozen Strokes and You Know He's Good, Says Pro Star.

Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles by Paul Runyan on the Masters' invitation golf championship. Runyan, the pre-tournament favorite because of his sensational winter play, has been Bobby Jones' partner for two days.

By Paul Runyan.

(Written Exclusively for the United Press.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—(UP)—During the practice rounds before this great tournament got underway, a great many of us boys who had been red-hot in the winter events were of the opinion that a score of 280 or better would be required to come in ahead of the sharpshooters entered. But right now it looks as though 284 or possibly 285 will be the winning figure.

The course here has given us all a big surprise. It's a lot tougher than it looks. You only have to remember that but one man has broken 70 in the first two rounds to be convinced of this. I would say that the course is difficult chiefly because of the treacherous placing of the pins. They're changed every day, and the tournament committee, so far, has not been at a loss for wicked spots in which to sink the cups.

I was very gratified when my four-ball partner, Horton Smith, and one of the finest golfers in the business, shot a 72 today to take a clean lead on the field. In the second place are a couple of sound shotmakers, Ed Dudley, the home pro, and Billy Burke. There was pure magic in Burke's niblick today.

Tied for fourth is Mac Smith, of the faultless swing, who came through with a wonderful 70 after starting with a discouraging six at the par four first hole. This, coupled with a 74, gives him a tie with Jimmy Hines, the promising youngster from New York. In the 145 group, are Leo Diegel, with 73-72, Craig Wood with 71-74, and the writer, with 74-71.

PAIRED AGAIN. I was paired again today with Bobby Jones, whose 74 only strengthened my belief that he won't be dangerous until he gets a couple of tournaments.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Stocks today moved through the dull trading session with eyes peeled for some ground on the average although two or three groups offered resistance. Other markets were also sluggish.

Wall Street kept its eyes peeled for Washington news bulletins bearing on the automotive and rail negotiations.

On the stock exchange transfers attained a total of 792,070 shares. Activity was confined chiefly to alcohol, aircraft and a handful of miscellaneous issues.

Schenley and National Distillers, Currier Wright, A. Wright Aircraft and United Aircraft were among the firms represented by their industries. Elsewhere, several had a good-sized turnover coincident with news of management changes.

Cudahy and Sun Oil got out of the general rut but were quiet.

General Motors contributed a good proportion of the day's dealings, easing a major fraction net. Nash and Chrysler were also down. Du Pont, Case, American Smelting, United States Smelting, General Electric, Union Carbide and Bethlehem Steel eased fractions to more than a point.

United States Steel and American Telephone were narrow, the latter being especially quiet. Some of the light and power issues developed a slight upward trend in the morning, but the improvement got nowhere. Rails stagnated.

Business news had a fairly cheerful cast. Freight loadings last week showed a better than seasonal gain around 27,000 cars, the highest since last October.

Some of the gain, it was thought, could be traced to larger movements of merchandise against the possibility of industrial tie-ups.

Texas Corporation's report for 1933 reflected the improvement enjoyed by the oil industry during the last year. The company's profits in the final six months were nearly enough to offset a loss of about $11,500,000 sustained in the first half.

NEW YORK, March 23.—In one of the quietest sessions this year, the curb market closed mildly irregular today. Closing quotations were generally of fractional variation.

J. J. Newberry swung up for a 3-point advance, while gains of a point or more prevailed in shares of Gorman Manufacturing and Novadell.

Agente, Babcock and Wilcox rose 5 on small transfer.

American Gas & Electric lost 7-8 of a point but other public utilities, including Electric Bond and Share, yielded gains. Gulf and Humble Oil improved fractions but Standard Oil of Indiana eased a shade. Newmont and Hiram Walker also showed minor losses.

Natamex Company conceded a fraction after its sharp rise of the previous session, while the new stock (when issued) finished unchanged in an active turnover.

Transfers approximated 186,000 shares, compared with 232,000 for yesterday.

Gain in Retail Sales

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Dun & Bradstreet said today that "reports received from all parts of the country this week reveal sales of consumer goods are showing above anticipated quotas."

"The average gain in retail sales over those of last year," stated the review, "is placed at 12.5 per cent, with in many instances the 1932 figures having been passed by 10 to 12 per cent."

"Because of the prevailing rising market inventories have been doubled, as retailers are anticipating needs in advance of normal requirements. Wholesalers report even greater gains, with many instances of 20 to 30 per cent."

"The course of leading industrial indices," the agency said, "now is showing greater uniformity in reaching better positions, production almost without exception being at definitely higher levels in comparison with the same period last year."
